Shapp requests Pa. be declared disaster area

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp late Friday asked President Carter to declare the state a federal disaster area in the wake of energy shortages and a blizzard that brought arctic temperatures.

Michael McLaughlin, Shapp's press secretary, said a seven-page document detailing damages and job losses was being forwarded the White House. It estimated potential damages at $179 million.

If Carter decides to declare the state a disaster area, it would mean Pennsylvania could qualify for a variety of federal programs that could send millions of dollars to local communities to help repair damages.

McLaughlin estimated 90,000 workers have been forced off the job because of natural gas shortages across the state. A large share of the potential loss was traced to unemployment.

"We are optimistic that, after a review, the White House will agree with our request," McLaughlin said. "We have been in contact with officials in Washington throughout the day."

Earlier Friday, Shapp activated the Pennsylvania National Guard to help out where needed. About 100 troops were called out in southwestern Pennsylvania and more than 20,000 others were on call.

In Philadelphia, Mayor Frank L. Rizzo ordered all commercial and industrial users of gas to close down through Monday in a bid to save precious natural gas. Only food markets, gas stations and pharmacies were excluded.

In Harrisburg, Shapp's press secretary said the administration hoped it could avoid similar orders at the state level. Shapp already had asked nonessential businesses to close so they won't use up dwindling natural gas supplies.

"We are hopeful that commercial, residential and industrial users will have the good common sense to understand that they can thumb their nose at this kind of thing through the weekend and find themselves out in the cold on Monday," said Michael McLaughlin, Shapp's press secretary.

Resorts declared essential enough to stay open, few local businesses close to save energy but some shut down because of bad weather, schools still waiting for word. All on page 13. Shapp, with "supreme power," urges Congress to pass gas legislation. Page 2.

"We have left the decision in the hands of the owners and operators of businesses. It will be on their conscience and it will be in their neighbors' minds if they don't comply. If people keep standing around looking at one another and waiting for someone else to pull the switch, we could end up in a deep freeze," McLaughlin said.

The blizzard, which moved into western Pennsylvania from Ohio, caused temperatures to plummet by up to 30 degrees in one hour. Drifting snow closed many highways including the Turnpike, leaving motorists stranded.

At one point during the day the temperatures ranged from 2 degrees at the Ohio border to 42 degrees at the New Jersey line. Wind-whipped snow made visibility almost zero.

"Conditions are horrible," said Paul White, director of the western Pennsylvania regional civil defense office. "We have high winds, drifting snow and motorists being stranded."

The storm hit as Pennsylvanians were being warned to prepare for an energy emergency that threatened to cut of natural gas supplies to thousands of persons, particularly in western Pennsylvania.

The Public Utility Commission issued a new order authorizing natural gas companies to cut off service to commercial customers which refuse to comply with curtailment requests.

The service can be curtailed only when essential human needs are in danger.

Shapp Thursday night asked all businesses and industries to close down until at least noon Monday to conserve natural gas.

Earlier in the week, he ordered the state's public and private schools closed until at least Tuesday. Lt. Gov. Ernest Kline said that decision will be reevaluated Monday.

Poconos duck brunt of near-blizzard

By JEFFREY WIDMER
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — The storm that plagued western Pennsylvania breezed through the Poconos about 6 p.m. Friday with little snow but frigid winds bent on drifting shut roads in the more open areas.

The National Weather Service (NWS) reported the two-hour storm hit hard, but then dwindled. Winds were expected to diminish gradually throughout the night. A spokesman said a late-night calm in the Stroudsburg area might have been caused by terrain blocking the wind, which was still blowing at 30 miles an hour in Avoca.

Pennsylvania Department of Transportation (PennDOT) trucks hit the road armed with snow plows, but could do little except cut the drifts around I-380 and stand by to help stranded motorists.

Nothing goes

Ray Jones, assistant superintendent of highways for PennDOT in Monroe County, said crews would not bother to salt the roads yet.

"With the wind blowing as hard as it is, nothing will go on the road, let alone stay on it," he said.

PennDOT personnel covering Pike County said crews were standing by to help motorists and clearing a lane on I-81 so drivers could get off the road.

The National Weather Service called for "near blizzard conditions" Friday night: 2-4 inches of snow, high winds and low temperatures of 5-10 degrees below zero. Winds were to average 20-30 miles an hour, gusting up to 55 miles an hour at times. A 25-mile-an-hour wind at five below zero would produce a wind chill factor of minus 52 degrees, the NWS said.

The NWS prediction for today calls for highs five below to five above, lows of 10-15 below zero and winds 15-20 miles an hour. Sunday's forecast calls for a high of 10 degrees and a low of five below to five above.

The low Monday will be five below, the high in the teens. On Tuesday, the air will warm to about 20 degrees, reaching the low 20s by Wednesday.

Low temperatures this weekend assure record keepers January 1977 will be the coldest January in history, according to Thomas Wahl, the official in charge of the NWS office at the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton International Airport in Avoca.

Wahl said this will be the coldest January since weather records began in 1900. Temperatures are averaging 15.7 degrees, more than 10 degrees below normal.

Wahl said the temperature will not drastically rise in February because cold arctic air will continue to pervade the area.

Earlier in the day, state Secretary of Transportation Wil*liam Sherlock instructed* PennDOT to concentrate on clearing "major primary roads" first. He said some roads would be closed if necessary.

PennDOT crews in Pike County will try to clear both primary and secondary roads, according to Bert Davis, assistant maintenance engineer in charge of snow removal for PennDOT's District 4-0 office in Dunmore.

"If it comes to a point where we have to choose between keeping both open, we must keep the primary roads open at all costs," he said.

Davis said primary roads like Rtes. 209, 6, 507, 402 and I-84 must stay open to allow passage of fuel oil and other necessary commodities.

All roads open

Charles Hicks, assistant superintendent of highways for Pike County, reported late Friday roads were open are being plowed and salted.

PennDOT superintendent for Monroe County Lloyd LaBar said primary roads would come first. Primary roads are interstates 80 and 380 and Rtes. 33, 209, 191, 611, 940 and 390, he said.

The extreme cold will make the job of snow removal harder for PennDOT. LaBar said salt will not melt snow if temperatures fall below 18-20 degree; calcium will not melt snow if temperatures drop below 8-10 degrees, he said.

Drifting in the Pocono Lake and West End areas of Monroe County further complicate the job, he said.

While Sherlock cautioned gasoline and diesel fuel supplies for PennDOT may be depleted, LaBar said PennDOT here has a good supply of fuel. However, he said the state may distribute supplies from districts with plenty of fuel to depleted districts.

Guard not alerted

The Pennsylvania National Guard was not put on alert as *of early Friday night, accord*ing to Sgt. Arthur Kroll of the guard's Co. C in East Stroudsburg.

No snow-stranded motorists had taken refuge early Friday night at the Salvation Army in East Stroudsburg. The citadel can house several hundred people, said Capt. Norman Wood.

A spokesman for Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. said the high winds caused no outages. A spokesman for Metropolitan Edison Co. said only one home in the Stroudsburg area was without power.

Senate begins gas debate; FEA boss urges sacrifice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a crisis atmosphere heightened by a blizzard sweeping into the eastern United States, the Senate began debate Friday on President Carter's emergency natural gas legislation.

On the other side of the Capitol, Carter energy adviser James Schlesinger testified before a House energy subcommittee and urged Americans to sacrifice some comfort. He warned that "in a few weeks, indeed in a few days, we are likely to find some homes in the United States cut off from gas."

But both supporters of the bill and its critics, who prefer that it deregulate gas prices permanently, contend the bill will not provide the nation with more natural gas.

"I am not attempting to frighten you. The situation speaks for itself," Schlesinger said, citing the states that have declared emergencies, the industrial layoffs, the school closings so far.

"We have no alternative but to get serious as a nation with regard to conservation," Schlesinger said. "I can only emphasize again the need for every American physically able to do so to sacrifice a small measure of comfort to help save a large number of jobs in the coming weeks."

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., urged his colleagues to turn aside amendments that "will bog down and delay" and move to a vote no later than Monday.

The Carter bill, sent to Congress Wednesday, would allow interstate pipelines to buy gas outside the normal price controls to get emergency supplies, and authorize the President to order that pipelines share supplies so that top-priority users get the gas.

Schlesinger did not dispute criticism that the bill is a "Band-Aid," with no help for the long term. It is, he said, "a temporary safety net" that would provide "the minimum temporary authority needed to maintain the flow of natural gas into homes and to maintain other essential services."

He said Carter will have comprehensive energy legislation ready in April.

In the Senate debate, Ohio Democrat John Glenn, whose state is one of the hardest hit by the natural gas shortage, said the severe weather conditions "reflect a virtual state of siege" and warned that the "physical, social and economic chaos" could be unmatched since the Great Depression.

Pleads innocent to 10 counts

Fineman denies kickbacks

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Pennsylvania House Speaker Herbert Fineman, speaking in a firm voice, Friday pleaded not guilty to charges he accepted $56,000 in kickbacks to influence the admission of students to Philadelphia' professional schools.

Fineman, 56, one of the state's most powerful Democrats, entered the plea during a three-minute arraignment before U.S. Magistrate Edwin E. Naythons.

His innocent plea covered 10 counts involving conspiracy, bribery, mail fraud, and obstruction of justice.

Fineman, neatly-dressed in a grey pin-striped suit, was represented by Howard Gittis, one of the lawyers who represented Mayor Frank Rizzo during recent attempts to re*call him from* office.

Naythons granted Gittis' plea for 30 days in which to file pretrial motions. The magistrate pointed out that the case had been assigned to U.S. District Judge John P. Fullam, but that he felt Fullam would have no objection to the waiving of the 10-day rule.

Fineman, a Philadelphia veteran of 22 years in the legislature, was permitted to sign his own $50,000 bond.

"All these charges are false," Fineman said in a statement to reporters, "and I will be vindicated when this matter is brought to a conclusion."

The defendant, who is serving an unprecedented fourth term as house speaker, entered the plea 90 minutes after a superceding indictment had been returned against him by a federal grand jury. It supplanted one handed up to a federal court last week.

The superceding indictment differed from the previous one in that it boosted the amount of kickbacks allegedly received by Fineman from $41,000 to $56,000.

It added Morris Tucker, of Haddonfield, N.J., as the fourth parent who allegedly made a kickback payment. The previous indictment had listed three parents — Oscar Braunstein, Jacob Krause, and Joseph L. Conti.

The indictment alleged that Fineman received kickbacks of $15,000 each from Tucker, Braunstein and Krause and $11,000 from Conti.

Martin Abrams, 51, former committeeman in a ward headed by Fineman, was named as an unindicted coconspirator.

Self-inflicted wound has star near death

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Freddie Prinze, light-hearted star of television's "Chico and the Man," clung to life Friday following surgery for a massive wound inflicted when he put a bullet through his head in suicidal despondency over a broken marriage.

His wife waited in a hospital anteroom for word whether Prinze would survive.

Doctors at UCLA Medical Center performed two hours of surgery in an attempt to save the life of the 22-year-old comedian who pulled out a foreign-make automatic from a pillow as he sat on a divan in his apartment shortly before 4 a.m., put it to his left temple and pulled the trigger.

Prinze had telephoned his estranged wife and his parents telling them he was going to take his life but he was alone with his manager, Marvin Snyder, when he suddenly flourished the gun before Snyder could move.

"I did not see the gun until it was too late," Snyder said.

Police found a note reading: "I can't take it any longer."

A bulletin issued at the medical center in mid-afternoon said:

"Actor Freddie Prinze was brought to the UCLA Medical Center at 4:06 a.m. He had sustained a single gunshot wound with the bullet passing completely through the temporal region. Surgery has been performed and Mr. Prinze now remains in critical condition.

Prinze was married to his wife, Kathy Elaine, in Las Vegas in October 1975. They were separated last Nov. 8 and his wife filed for divorce Dec. 13.

Prinze was kept alive with life support systems in the hospital's intensive care unit before undergoing surgery about 10:30 a.m.

Paramedic Tom Gilmartin was called to Prinze's apartment near Beverly Hills shortly after 4 a.m. He told UPI, "We found Prinze in the living room with a gun across his lap.

"The wound was what we call a through and through. It entered one side of his head and went out the other."

President ponders crisis aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Friday directed his staff to determine whether federal disaster relief laws must be changed to cover the current situation in which the problem is bitterly cold weather and energy shortages, not floods or hurricanes.

"To my knowledge no one has ever looked at this law and said, 'what can you do when you don't happen to have trees in the street and you don't have water in the basement, but you've got people out of work?'" White House press secretary Jody Powell said in announcing the study.

"In a layman's sense of the word, he does consider it a crisis," Powell said of Carter's feelings about the current combination of brutal winter cold and shortages of natural gas for heating.

He said the present emergency law allows the federal government to finance clean-up projects, reconstruction and low-interest recovery loans in the wake of such natural disasters as floods.

Now, he said, "we are faced with what I think is probably an unprecedented or unique situation in attempting to adapt existing legislation and federal programs to meet the problems brought on by the cold weather."

Powell said Carter's directive went onto the White House senior staff agenda Friday.

The legal study, he said, will try to determine what can be done in the line of winter damage relief by the White House, other federal agencies and state and local governments.

Harsh winter hits Midwest, East

By United Press International

A crippling blizzard roared out of the Midwest and into the East Friday, leaving leaders on the eastern seaboard to grapple with solutions for surviving the Arctic blasts.

Connecticut and Massachusetts officials, citing serious hardship to their citizens, asked the Federal Energy Administration to reimpose price controls on home heating oil.

"The severe cold and uncontrolled prices have wreaked havoc on those citizens living on limited income — the elderly on fixed incomes and the poor on welfare," said Connecticut Gov. Ella Grasso.

A panel of governors testified in Washington at a hearing of the House energy subcommittee on the emergency natural gas legislation submitted by President Carter.

"The regulation of natural gas by the federal government has resulted in a disaster of unprecedented proportions," said Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Gov. Hugh Carey, who declared an emergency in New York, said "speed is of the essence" in getting the bill to do some good. "The children in our schools, the workers in our factories, the people in their homes and apartments cannot wait," he said.

Buffalo in upstate New York has been one of the nation's hardest hit cities, buried under more than 120 inches of snow so far this winter. Another blizzard roared through the area Friday on the heels of a Thursday blizzard which resulted in school closings, and business and industry shutdowns.

Little relief from the pitiless cold fuel shortages was in sight.

James Schlesinger, President Carter's energy adviser, warned that "in a few days, we are likely to find some homes in the United States cut off from gas."

Across the eastern two thirds of the nation, schools and nonessential industries were urged to shut down until the subzero cold eases. Hundreds of thousands of workers were laid off — more than 125,000 in the auto industry alone.

In Ohio, State Development Director James Duerk said nearly a million Ohioans will be temporarily forced out of work because of the gas shortage.

"The economic effects of this natural gas shortage in this extremely cold winter are going to be felt in Ohio for months to come," he said.

Winds of up to 75 miles an hour drove the snows and sent wind chill factors down to 80 below zero in northern Illinois. It was 10 below zero or colder as far south as Missouri.

National Guardsmen in Ohio fought to free an undetermined number of motorists stranded by high drifts along U.S. 35. Indiana guardsmen were alerted for similar duty. Hundreds of motorists took refuge in schools, churches, police stations and roadside restaurants.

Amtrak, the national rail passenger service, announced snow and cold forced cancellation of 28 train runs, more than 10 per cent of all its runs.

Blowing snow cut visibility to near zero across the lower Great Lakes region.

New state school aid plan shelved

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Acting Education Secretary Robert Hendershot has shelved his agency's controversial proposal for revising Pennsylvania's school aid formula. Hendershot shelved the plan quietly in a House-Senate Education Committee hearing in Altoona, in sharp contrast to last November's announcement of the proposal by former Education Secretary John Pittenger prior to a State Board of Education meeting in Hershey. "It just became very apparent," Hendershot said, "that no big slug of new money for school aid would be available this year. And we don't anticipate being able to put our proposed new system in without a considerable increase in subsidy funds. We're just trying to be realistic about it," he said.

Wage increases under '75 levels

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wage increases averaged 8.3 per cent under major union contracts negotiated in 1976, a decline from the previous year, the Labor Department announced Friday. A separate department report showed that factory layoffs declined during December to the lowest level since last March. Hiring increased. Most economists attribute the recent cooling trend in wages to high unemployment and an increase in the number of workers whose earnings are protected against inflation by cost of living escalator clauses. Last year marked the start of a new three-year cycle in contract bargaining. Economists generally expect the trend established in 1976 to continue throughout negotiations this year.

Flu outbreak adds to winter woe

ATLANTA (UPI) — Mid-winter outbreaks of influenza or influenza-like illnesses, striking mostly school children or young adults, were reported in 23 states Friday by the national Center for Disease Control. Outbreaks of influenza-B were reported in Houston, Tex.; Chapel Hill, N.C.; Nashville, Tenn.; Orange County, N.Y.; Westmoreland County, Pa.; East Carroll Parish, La.; Grand County, Colo., and Wayne County, Mich. The CDC said influenza-like activity was reported in the following states: Rhode Island, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, Illinois, Ohio, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Arizona, Oregon, New Jersey, Alabama, and Connecticut. Sporadic cases of influenza-B — not counted in the outbreak total — were reported in Washington, D.C., Charlottsville, Va., and Philadelphia, the CDC said. Influenza B more commonly affects school-age children and is not usually associated with extensive epidemics and excess pneumonia and influenza mortality.

Hotel fire leaves 22 missing

BRECKENRIDGE, Minn. (UPI) — A flash fire swept through a landmark hotel in this small town in extreme western Minnesota Friday, leaving 22 persons missing. One person was rescued. No bodies were discovered immediately, and a search of the total wreckage was not expected to start until today because the ruins were still too hot to probe. "There are 22 people we can't account for on the basis of friends and relatives who said they were possibly in the hotel," Mayor Hugh Mikkelson said late Friday. The 70-year-old, three-story brick and wood Stratford Hotel in this town of 4,200 caught fire shortly before 5 a.m. When firemen reached the structure, smoke was coming from every window. The hotel collapsed into the basement.

Rosalynn intervenes for ERA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rosalynn Carter Friday telephoned and wired a few Democrats in the Virginia legislature in hopes of reversing the vote in which ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment was defeated by one vote. Mary Hoyt, the First Lady's Press Secretary, said Mrs. Carter "made a few phone calls and sent a few mailgrams" to Democratic legislators urging their support for ERA. Mrs. Hoyt said that Mrs. Carter preferred not to identify the persons she telephoned. Virginia backers of the ERA asked Mrs. Carter to personally call the senators and ask them to reconsider Thursday's 20-18 vote, which lacked one vote of the needed majority in the 40-member body.

Economic rebound boosts U.S. trade level

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rebounding world economies pushed U.S. foreign trade to record levels in December and a barometer of future trends promises more domestic improvements by spring, the Commerce Department reported Friday.

The United States recorded a $515 million trade deficit last month, nearly down to half the figure in November. The index of leading economic indicators increased 1.6 per cent for its biggest gain in 17 months.

"The whole economy on the basis of the index seems pretty good," said department economist Felixs Tamm.

It was the third consecutive monthly increase for the index, which stood at 129.8 in December and a revised 127.7 in November, using 1967 as a base of 100.

The December gain was the biggest since a 2.3 per cent rise in July, 1975, shortly after income tax rebates and payments to Social Security recipients boosted consumer buying power.

The index increased 1.5 per cent for the fourth quarter, the report said. It started the year with a strong 2.4 per cent, then in successive quarters slowed to 2 per cent and 1.1 per cent gains.

The general economy followed the same trend, with unemployment rising and production falling particularly fast in September and October.

Now that the index is beginning to move up again, it is supposed to indicate that consumer buying, stock market prices, factory production and employment will be better in the months immediately ahead.

In the other report, the Commerce Department said the United States had a trade deficit of $5.9 billion for the year compared with a record surplus of $11 billion in 1975.

But the annual deficit was not big enough to hamper the U.S. economy or to spur inflation.

Excess buying by Americans did help other countries recover from their own recessions because nearly half the economic production of countries like Japan and Germany is exported, with the United States the most important market.

As U.S. trading partners increase production and cut unemployment, their demand for American products increases. In turn, this helps economic conditions here.

The higher foreign demand was reflected in a 9.2 per cent increase in exports to a record $10.5 billion in December. Imports also rose, but at a slower 5.1 per cent to $11 billion.

Among exports, the Commerce Department said there were large increases in deliveries of aircraft, cars, trucks and other motor vehicles and machinery. The biggest gains in imports were for passenger cars, noniron metals and food — particularly higher-priced coffee.

Governors appeal for gas bill

By MARK BROWN
Ottaway News Service
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Governors Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania, Brendan Byrne of New Jersey and Hugh Carey of New York appealed to Congress Friday to pass an emergency natural gas bill which would make more fuel available to their states this winter.

Warning that industries and schools across their states may shut down for lack of heat, the governors asked for temporary authority to purchase additional natural gas supplies from intrastate market.

They also urged that a ceiling be placed on the price of gas sold during the emergency to prevent unreasonable profiteering during the shortage.

Their pleas were immediately criticized by a Texas congressman, however.

Rep. Robert Krueger said their proposals were an insult to Texas and other gas-producing states which have paid more for their gas over the years under the nation's two-tier pricing system.

The cold weather gripping the Northeast is regrettable, Krueger said, but it is no excuse for giving away gas produced at the expense of Texas consumers.

Krueger was backed up by Texas Governor Dolph Briscoe, who said the governors' suggestions amount to "nothing less than allowing consumers in other states, who for years have reaped the benefits of low-cost interstate gas, to now reap the benefits of an extensive drilling program which has been financed entirely by Texas consumers."

With some modifications all three governors endorsed the stopgap energy bill which President Carter submitted to Congress earlier this week.

The bill would basically allow emergency purchases of natural gas by interstate pipelines at prices which exceed the current ceiling on interstate sales.

But the governors said the bill does not go far enough.

First, they said President Carter should order both interstate and intrastate pipelines to establish curtailment plans, to ensure that gas supplies are equitably allocated across the country.

To guarantee that no one profits unreasonably from the crisis, they said a ceiling should be set on emergency sales which would allow no more than an 18 per cent return on equity.

Krueger said an 18 per cent ceiling on profits is unrealistic because there is no guarantee that every well will produce.

He asked Shapp to put the shoe on the other foot, and sell Pennsylvania Steel to Texas for one-third less than other states pay for it.

The Texas lawmaker sneered at their suggestions that the natural gas shortage may not even be real, and may be just a plot by the oil companies to force permanent deregulation of gas prices.

The governors stood on their ground, however, urging Congress to conduct a complete investigation of natural gas suppliers, to determine if they have deliberately capped their wells to promote higher prices.

Mondale wins backing for Carter

PARIS (UPI) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale flew to Paris Friday and won an endorsement of President Carter's program to stimulate the U.S. and world economies from an international economic official.

Emile Van Lennep, secretary general of the 24-nation Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, met for an hour with Mondale shortly after the vice president's arrival in France on the next-to-last leg of his overseas trip as Carter's personal envoy.

The Dutch economist told reporters, "I was extremely encouraged by the policies of the new administration of the United States that I heard from the vice president."

Van Lennep said he gave Mondale "our very first assessment" of what the Carter program will mean to other nations.

"It would improve our gross national product figure" for the 24 member countries (which include the United States), Van Lennep said. "This figure is up to over 4 per cent for the year as a whole and may be more for the second half" of 1977.

Mondale said he detailed some of the energy programs that will soon be announced by Carter. The vice president also stressed Carter's hope for international cooperation in energy research and development through both the OECD and the International Energy Agency.

In a warm arrival statement at Orly International Airport, Mondale said, "If there is any one word to characterize the world in which we live, it is the word interdependence."

"We can be successful in shaping a better world but we cannot do it alone," Mondale said. "It is especially important in the mind of our government that we have the best possible relationship with France...our oldest ally and friend."

Mondale's talks today with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing were expected to focus on economic recovery.

Carter sets 'fireside TV chat'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter will hold his first televised "fireside chat" Wednesday night to outline "the problems he faces in his first year," a White House spokesman said Friday.

Press Secretary Jody Powell also said Carter has senior aides investigating how the federal government might speed assistance to areas hit hardest by natural gas shortages and severe winter weather.

Powell said the President — disdaining the term "fireside chat" although he has used it himself — will make the first of his direct reports to the nation Wednesday at 10 p.m. EST.

He said the presentation, telecast from the White House, would run about 20 minutes and would furnish "an overview" of domestic and foreign policies the President intends to pursue.

"He will present his thoughts on the problems he faces in his first year," Powell said, but expects to make no major news announcements.

Details of the exact setting and format were not disclosed.

During his presidential campaign, Carter promised he would make periodic progress reports direct to the nation, outside the standard news conference format. He likened these reports to the "fireside chats" President Franklin D. Roosevelt conducted on radio as a means of building public morale during the Depression and wartime years.

Powell said Friday, however, that the President now prefers to avoid the "fireside chat" label. He did not say why.

Shirley Temple Black packs bags

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Shirley Temple Black packed up her gift flags, turned in her State Department identification and prepared to head back to California Friday. But she's hooked on international diplomacy and she says she'll be back. The one-time child movie star has been chief of protocol for the last six months. The incoming Carter administration has decided to give the job to Evan S. Pobelle, former mayor of Pittsfield, Mass.

Singer $6 million in debt

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Soul singer Isaac Hayes has told his creditors he has no money to pay debts estimated at $6 million or more. Lawyer Gary Plotkin said in Federal Bankruptcy Court Thursday that Hayes' "unfortunate" financial shape is due to the failure of his recording business and the $463,969 federal tax liens. "There was a lot of financial mismanagement and poor business advice given Mr. Hayes, and now it's something that can't be helped," Plotkin said. Trustee Russell B. Sugarman Jr. said a substantial portion of Hayes assets are being placed in storage for liquidation. Hayes home was sold recently to a Memphis bank at a foreclosure sale on the steps of the Shelvy County Courthouse.

'Boss' author too bossy?

CHICAGO (UPI) — Syndicated columnist Mike Royko of the Chicago Daily News was arrested early Friday in a North Side bar and charged with disorderly conduct and assault for splashing catsup on a female patron's coat. Police officer James Geighes said Royko, 44, a Pulitzer Prize winner, "had a little too much to drink." Geighes said four patrons of the 2350 Pub signed a complaint against the columnist. Police said Royko smashed a catsup bottle on a table in the bar "and tried to pour it on one of the customers."

Chilean communist receives award

BERLIN (UPI) — East Germany Friday awarded Luis Corvalan, head of the Communist party of Chile, the Karl-Marx Order, the highest in the country, the East German news agency said. The ceremony took place in the offices of the State Council in East Berlin's Marx-Engels Square, the news agency said. Corvalan, recently traded for Russian dissident Andrei Bukowski, is visiting East Germany for several days.

Shapp could have shut whole state

HARRISBURG — There were a lot of grumbles when Gov. Milton J. Shapp Thursday night asked commercial enterprises to close for the weekend on Friday in order to conserve energy.

Grumbles or not, what the restaurant, store and theater operators probably did not realize is that Shapp could have ordered a virtual shutdown of all businesses in the state.

Under powers vested by the state constitution, the governor has nearly absolute powers during an emergency, state Attorney General Robert P. Kane said Friday.

"Governors historically, when the health, safety and welfare of citizens have been at risk, for whatever reason, have utilized their supreme power to declare (an) emergency or right a malady," Kane said, citing Article IV, Section Two of the state Constitution.

It is unusual for a governor to declare a statewide emergency and invoke powers that could actually amount to martial law. Last week Shapp declared an "extreme emergency" due to the cold weather and the spreading energy crisis caused by drains of natural gas and fuel oil.

The last time a proclamation of this magnitude was issued was in 1972 when Tropical Storm Agnes wrecked havoc over wide sections of Pennsylvania. Shapp and other state officials say they fear the economic blow to the state because of the energy crunch and severe bad weather could surpass the $3 billion mark established by Agnes.

The governor has, of course, issued proclamations of emergency for specific areas of the state many times since Agnes. These are more limited in scope and pertain only to a certain county or counties.

For example, last summer, severe thunderstorms and high winds caused damage in several counties. Shapp issued an emergency proclamation covering those areas.

"There is nothing unique about the powers of the governor of Pennsylvania happens to have," Kane said. "Under certain circumstances, he has supreme executive power, the highest authority in the state."

Kane said for a governor not to act when the health, safety and welfare of his state's residents is threatened, could lead the state into lawsuits for failure to carry out its responsibilities.

"We have sovereign immunity (whereby the state cannot be sued unless it consents) and don't have the risk. But the State of Washington does not. If the governor there did not act, the state would be subject to suit," Kane said.

Kane said the governor's powers are inherent to the office. "The Constitution does not spell them out, except to give him 'supreme executive power.'"

The word supreme is not ambiguous. We know what it means. That means he (the governor) can call up the National Guard and have you commandeered if necessary during an emergency," Kane said.

During the race riots of the 1960s the governor used his supreme powers to virtually shut off whole cities and sections of cities, Kane said. No one challenged him.

Rizzo closes all gas users in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mayor Frank L. Rizzo Friday night ordered all commercial and industrial users of gas to close down through Monday in a move to conserve natural gas.

Rizzo told a news conference that businesses not complying with his order would have their gas shut off by Philadelphia Gas Works.

The mayor's order excluded food stores, pharmacies and service stations, but these businesses were to keep thermostats at 55 degrees.

Rizzo said he took the emergency action "because of the devastating cold wave and snow storm heading for the city this weekend and because of the critical need to conserve our gas supplies."

He said gas users "must cease operations through Monday, Jan. 31." He said police would serve as a "conduit" in checking what businesses remain open in violation of the order and would notify the gas company.

PGW general manager Edward Hubbard said, "It's preferable to close because...they (the businesses) may suffer physical damage to their property" if PGW must shut off the gas.

"Mr. Hubbard will take steps to close them down if necessary," Rizzo said. "He has the ability to shut off gas."

City Solicitor Sheldon Albert said that under the home rule charter the mayor had the "implicit and apparent powers" to issue such an order.

Rizzo said he would reevaluate his order Monday and decide whether to rescind or extend it.

Hubbard said 2,800 employes of PGW would aid in the effort to enforce the order.

Private security system tries to detect local market

By MIKE JOSEPH
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Many burglaries and acts of vandalism could be deterred or nipped in the bud if homes and housing developmehts made use of private security systems, according to Kelin Kiefer, Monroe County representative for a private security agency.

In selling private security, Kiefer is akin but only a distant relative of private detectives of the Sherlock Holmes and Nero Wolfe variety.

A representative for Blum Industrial Security Systems Inc. of Bethlehem, Kiefer is trying to grow business roots in Monroe County. He said the county is without any other private security agency.

Where needed

As an example of where private security is needed, Kiefer described housing developments such as Indian Mountain Lakes on Rte. 115 just north of Brodheadsville.

He said such developments are entirely private, streets and all. With no municipal police force and with state troopers seen there only rarely on patrol, Kiefer said private security is a must to prevent burglaries and vandalism that would naturally develop.

Such homes are often second homes for families who live in them only over weekends or during the summer, Kiefer said. "A lot of juveniles break into homes when they're unoccupied."

The goods Kiefer has to sell run the gamut from patrolmen in cars to elaborate burglary systems and trained Doberman pinschers.

At about $950 each, Kiefer has so far outfitted three homes in Indian Mountain Lakes with a full range of burglary and fire prevention devices. His firm also has taken over the patroling duties in the development.

Kiefer said the authorization that allows his security guards to catch suspected criminals is somewhat like everyone's authority to make citizen's arrests.

If a guard on patrol notices something suspicious, he can catch the suspect and hold him with whatever force is necessary until state police can be called, Kiefer said.

"If a suspect is just trying to get away, you can't hit him over the head or shoot him," Kiefer said. "If he uses a finger in trying to get away, then you use a thumb. If he uses a thumb then you use a hand."

He said installation of the elaborate electrical alarm system usually takes two men a day and a half to complete.

Special alarm

"The burglar alarm doesn't just have a bell outside ringing," he said, but it is wired into the telephone so that as soon as someone trips the alarm, security agents are warned at four different locations — the patrol car, the Indian Mountain Lakes headquarters, Kiefer's office in Brodheadsville and the firm's main office in Bethlehem.

An automatically tripped flashing strobe atop the roof guides the security guard to the correct home.

Also in the homes are motion detection devices and panic buttons, Kiefer said. Panic buttons can be used by home occupants in case of heart attacks or other emergencies when they are alone.

Kiefer said he is aiming his business mainly at housing developments, since most Monroe County resorts and industries hire and train their own security guards.

Spokesmen for Mount Airy Lodge and Buckhill resorts confirmed this.

Resort guards

Ray Savory, security supervisor at Mount Airy Lodge, said guards from agencies are hired only during especially large conventions.

At Swiftwater state police barracks, Sgt. John Hosking said that in addition to a small license fee, private security agencies must post a $10,000 surety bond before they are licensed by the county court.

He said private security agencies usually do not get in the way of police operations.

"Anybody that hires a private detective is actually doing us a favor helping us out," Hosking said.

He added that in some cases, such as surveillance and investigation, private detectives can go further than police nosing into someone's personal affairs.

Anthony J. Fili, owner of the Fili Detective Agency in Easton, said licenses are usually issued only to persons who have much experience in security work.

He said licenses are often issued to former police sergeants or former special government agents with the U.S. treasury and justice departments.

Every person employed by a security agency does not need such experience, according to Hosking. Only one license is necessary for the agency, which is responsible for the training of its employes and is liable for their work.

At most housing developments, there's only one thing that Kiefer can't do in selling security, he said. He can't go door-to-door there soliciting.

It's against the law, he said.

New jobs actively sought

Slate Belt tries to entice industry

By JEFF WIDMER
Pocono Record Reporter

BANGOR — Slate Belt business people are organizing to attract light industries to the area, both to diversify the local economy and replace jobs and tax ratables lost by the closing of one and possibly a second major industry.

A group of Slate Belt government officials in concert with area bankers are planning to create an audio visual program to entice businesses to locate in northern Northampton County.

The group wants to attract industries like the Binney & Smith Inc. crayon manufacturer that located near Easton, according to Thomas M. Sullivan, chairman of the Slate Belt Industrial Development Committee (SBIDC), which formed this week.

The group has already taken positive steps to sell businesses on the benefits of relocating to the Slate Belt area. It commissioned a market report on the area from Ernie Stiegler Advertising and Public Relations, Inc. agency in Allentown. Six banks in Portland, Bangor, Pen Argyl and Wind Gap chipped in $300 to pay for the study.

Sullivan, vice president and manager of the First Valley Bank branch in Bangor, said the market report recommended SBIDC create an audio visual program consisting of slides that show the benefits of the area. The show could be presented to New York City and Philadelphia industrialists in hotels there.

Beginning budget

The report also recommended a start-up budget of $12,300 consisting of $3,300 for the audio visual program, $300 for the market report, $7,300 for advertisements in two industrial magazines and $1,200 for the printing of 2,500 brochures.

Sullivan said his next step is to conduct a membership drive to entice Slate Belt business people to join the SBIDC. With their backing, the committee will finance the slide show and give residents and the business community a preview before it goes on the road.

Sullivan said the Slate Belt needs to regain the 1,000-1,200 jobs being lost as a result of the closing of the Collins & Aikman textile plant in Pen Argyl and the possible closing of R&R Toy, Inc., also of Pen Argyl. He said Collins employed 400 people about two years ago and is down to 100 now.

Business benefits

New industries will mean more money is being spent by workers in the Slate Belt, more business that will pay taxes and more high-caliber professionals who can serve the area on school boards and in other forms of government.

A hospital might also be built to serve the area, which now relies on hospitals in Easton and East Stroudsburg.

Sullivan said the Slate Belt has a fistful of drawing cards he hopes will attract industries like the headquarters for insurance companies. He said the Slate Belt offers easy access through interstate highways to major markets, plenty of open space for employes, clean air and a lower cost of living than experienced in cities.

Nearby are recreation areas, a quarter-million-person workforce in the Lehigh Valley and areas already designated as industrial parks.

Executive director

Sullivan said he foresees the SBIDC hiring an executive director eventually to make the contacts with industries, determine their needs and find out whether those needs can be met. That will involve finding out whether the proper water, sewage-disposal and financing requirements can be met, he said.

He also foresees the influx of new business coming not immediately but over the next four to five years.

The idea to attract industries formed a year ago when Sullivan was contacted by a New Jersey real estate agent at his bank. The agent wanted data about the Slate Belt for a business that wanted to locate there.

Sullivan said his three-page summary of the Slate Belt led to the formation of the SBIDC by the Slate Belt Municipalities Assn., a group of mayors and township supervisors in the area.

The association represents the boroughs of Bangor, Pen Argyl, Portland, East Bangor, Roseto and Wind Gap and the townships of Upper Mt. Bethel, Lower Mt. Bethel, Washington and Plainfield.

Groundhog packs it in

By NORMAN B. LEHDE

"Howdy, Mr. Groundhog!"

"Ho hum. Who are you?"

"I'm a newspaper reporter."

"Oh, I thought maybe you were from the CIA. They used to come in here all the time."

"I want to find out if you are going to come out and cheer up the people of Milford, Pike County and the nation next Wednesday."

"I thought the new president was supposed to be doing that."

"Look, it has been a hard, cold winter and everybody needs you to tell them if spring is almost here of if we only have to endure six more weeks of cold weather before it does arrive."

"It is cold in here. I never did get any fireplace wood after those beavers went on strike."

"America is awaiting you. America needs you Mr. Groundhog."

"Should I wear something in red, white and blue?"

"The Bicentennial is over. We are now in our third century and we are marking the new with an old fashioned winter. In fact, it has been so cold the old timers are having trouble deciding just when it was worse."

"You don't make it sound very attractive for an early morning walk next Wednesday."

"Look, nobody dares mention spring until you make an appearance and at this time, in this winter, people need to mention spring. There is a fuel shortage you know."

"Didn't those beavers ever get back to work?"

"There are shortages of not only wood but oil, gas and electric power."

"What about firearms? I hope they are running short too."

"You can't let the thought of a few hunters interfere with your duties as the first harbinger of spring. Americans have always been willing to face adversity for the good of the nation."

"Are you sure you are not recruiting for the military?"

"Please let me assure my readers that you will make your appearance on Wednesday. I know it will be greeted with great enthusiasm."

"Yes, but what will I be greeted with when I make my appearance in some of these people's gardens next summer."

"Look, everybody will be so greatful if you appear they may work something out to issue you food stamps."

"Okay, okay. Tell me one thing, did those beavers ever end their strike?"

"They couldn't stand the squeeze so they went to work for Charmin."

Presidential 'wheel': How long will it roll along?

Wall Street Journal - ONS

WASHINGTON — The "spokes on the wheel" theory is back in vogue at the White House, and as always, that sort of oversimplified imagery can be more hindrance than help — both to the people involved and to outsiders trying to make sense of it all.

Ever since presidential aides began multiplying under Franklin Roosevelt, political observers have recognized two basic approaches to organizing the White House staff. One is the circle or wheel: The President is at the center or hub, and a handful of top assistants have access directly to him.

This was more or less the structure of Presidents Roosevelt, Kennedy and Johnson. Its advocates claim it helps promote action within an administration and keeps the chief executive in touch with many different points of view.

The other fundamental design is the pyramid or triangle. Problems proceed systematically from a broad base of assistants up a narrowing chain of command to a chief of staff, who deals with the president. Essentially the Eisenhower-Nixon pattern, it's touted as being orderly and efficient, and protecting the president from involvement in matters that really don't require his attention.

Politics & People

By ALAN F. OTTEN

President Carter promises not only to cut the size of his staff substantially but also to revert to the wheel pattern. His door will be open wide to all his top aides; no filtering chief of staff for him.

It sounds great, but several points need to be made about this policy. For one thing, while there is near-universal agreement that the White House staff needs drastic pruning, there is still no objectively "right" way to organize those advisers who remain.

Each president must work this out in the manner most comfortable for him — the form that best suits his own peculiar work patterns, his particular goals, his unique personality.

"Roosevelt would have felt hemmed in by Eisenhower's system and Eisenhower would have been befuddled by the chaos of Roosevelt's," observes Stephen Hess in his excellent book on "Organizing the Presidency" (Brookings Institution. 228 pages. $10.95 hardcover, $3.95 paperback).

Hess and other scholars also emphasize that staff systems change repeatedly during each administration. New problems force new presidential priorities and new staff arrangements. Individual staffers rise or fall in favor. Old hands depart and new ones join up.

The format that works well for drafting policy in the early months doesn't work for carrying it out later on.

Carter's White House design may not work out as neatly as he plans. One or two spokes may prove weak, while people outside the official wheel — Atlanta attorney Charles Kirbo, for example — may prove far more influential. Tensions have already developed among several key staffers.

All of this suggests that the backgrounds and abilities of the staff may be far more important than its precise geometrical configuration. And here there is cause for concern about Carter's choices.

For the new President has followed precisely the pattern that Hess' book describes as the way most presidents-elect have tended to staff their White House: with bright young people they've known a long time, often from their home states and/or campaign organizations, dependably loyal and highly energetic. Yet these may not be necessarily the best qualities for White House aides.

"The easy choice is often the wrong one," Hess says. The freewheeling style of the campaign isn't especially well suited to running a government. The energy that won the election tends to draw into the White House problems better left outside it. The exhilaration of victory often breeds a cocksureness and arrogance. Above all, the personal loyalty of longtime aides can skew their judgment and make them too ready to accept bad presidential ideas.

"There is no reason," asserts Hess, "to expect the very young to be wise or crafty in the ways of Washington, or even humble in the exercise of the powers they have been given." Carter has reportedly read Hess' book and called on him for further help, but he has already ignored this timely warning.

Fuel saving valid 'holiday' reason

While Gov. Milton Shapp was explaining why he shut down the state's schools (to save fuel), he might have explained why he wanted to save that fuel.

One of the unfortunate side effects of the shut-down order (and there are many) was confused anger. It is understandable for the state to close gas-heated schools in areas suffering from a drastic natural gas shortage. But why, many people wanted to know, must we shut down schools heated by coal and oil in areas that have no real shortage of either.

The reason is simple, once you re-read the specifics of natural gas reallocation sent out by gas suppliers. Supply is curtailed as little as possible for firms that depend wholely on natural gas to operate. But it is limited much more stringently for those users who have alternative sources of energy for heating or production processes.

Since the governor's primary purpose was to prevent the closing of industries and the dumping of yet more workers on the unemployment lines, it is reasonable to preserve as much of those alternative fuels for industry as possible.

One person contacted about the school closing snapped that he couldn't see why a bowling alley could stay open while a school had to close. Because the bowling alley employes aren't thrown out of work, that's why.

Meanwhile, as governments and people struggle to cope with the problems of insufficient fuel and inexorable cold, the weatherman tells us another cold front is descending from the arctic circle. The insistence of the deep freeze has brought out the doomsayers who are rushing to claim this is the dawning of another ice age, or something close to it.

Four days from now, another climatological soothsayer will chip in with his two cents' worth: On Feb. 2, the groundhog will emerge from his lair with his annual prediction — six more weeks of winter, or an early spring.

We're getting the clear feeling that his message is as believable as anyone else's. A new ice age? C'mon, Punxsatawney Phil, say it isn't so.

'He seems to have this idea that he can do the job without us'

Letters to the editor

Gave wrong impression

Editor, The Record:

I would like to address myself to the comments I made at a recent meeting of the Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau. These comments have been taken by some to give the impression that the Vacation Bureau has taken contradictory positions with regard to casino gambling. I would like to set the record straight. The Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau has as yet taken no formal position in favor or against casino gambling as far as I know. Individual members have understandably, publicly and privately expressed differing opinions concerning this issue.

The Pennsylvania legislature is in a position where we will not initiate any legislation with regard to casino gambling without the approval of the people who would be immediately effected by such legislation, the Pocono residents.

The legislative process moves slowly and for very practical reasons it is important that the Vacation Bureau swiftly come to a decision as to whether and under what circumstances casino gambling would be of benefit to the community. We are awaiting that decision.

Carter's pardon symbolic

Jeffrey Hart

In his pardon for those draft evaders, Jimmy Carter redeemed a campaign pledge. That pledge was essentially a political device — even, from Carter's point of view, a political necessity. It was Carter's way of reconciling the Democratic left to his candidacy.

In the primaries, Carter defeated the left Democrats — the supporters of Udall, Fred Harris, and so on. He knew he had to have the support of this faction to win, and knowing the importance of Vietnam to these leftists, he used the bait of the pardon.

The damage the pardon will do is symbolic. Carter's pay-off to the left has little immediate substance. Its significance is almost entirely symbolic: Though a relatively small number of draft evaders are actually affected, Carter has now, in appearance, given official sanction to the notion that the Vietnam war was "wrong" was "immoral," and a "mistake" and that the protesters and evaders were, after all, right.

Just that issue has always been the real point of the amnesty-pardon argument. It has always been an argument about the war itself. That is why Carter's pardon cannot possibly "heal" the divisions in the nation.

Allowing 10,000 draft evaders to return home if they wished to do so two years after the totalitarianization of South Vietnam would not in itself disturb me at all. But the symbolism is important.

Prominent advocates

Those who have been the most prominent advocates of pardon are those who, during the war, did everything within their power to bring the blessings of totalitarianism to millions of people in South Vietnam. On the other hand, opponents of the pardon provided the political support for the war.

In his efforts to mollify the leftist faction within his own coalition, Jimmy Carter has gone to the extreme length of calling the war "racist." I would like to make a strong point here. As I perceived the political battle, the precise opposite would seem to be more nearly true. The mobilized opposition to the war was fundamentally racist.

Can you imagine the furor if those people now being herded into camps, having their property confiscated, in some cases committing suicide rather than go on, maybe bobbing around at sea in pitiful little boats, rafts even — can you imagine the furor if these were Israelis rather than Vietnamese?

What I always heard the anti-war movement saying, as a deep undertone, was that those people in South Vietnam, and the few freedoms they had been able to wrest from the cruel processes of history, were not worth our effort. After all, their skins are honey-colored, and they speak a strange tongue. Communism is good enough for them.

In my perception, the anti-war people, rather than the hawks, were the real racists.

Well, pardon or no pardon, when the facts about the war finally penetrate our public consciousness, I believe an objective consensus will emerge as follows.

The guerrilla war in the South was won by 1968. Thereafter, the war was a conventional one — and, in the end, South Vietnam was totalitarianized by vastly superior material forces.

The real enemy

If the war is now generally regarded as a "mistake," I believe the mistake was not in fighting it but in losing it.

The "immoral" thing to do was to fight a prolonged war of attrition which was bound to lose politically at home before it could prevail on the field of battle. The stupid thing was not to recognize the fact that North Vietnam was the real enemy. The mistake was the decision not to render North Vietnam militarily impotent.

I conclude that while President Carter is pardoning people he should certainly pardon Lyndon Johnson, Robert McNamara, McGeorge Bundy, Walt Rostow, and all the other architects of our disastrous war strategy.

Compared with the offenses committed by these people against America, mere draft dodging is practically microscopic.

Gambling in the Northeast

Research report

People who live in the Northeast pay some of the highest state and local tax rates in the country. Through state-sponsored gambling ventures, they also can avail themselves of several types of "voluntary taxation." All six New England states and all five Middle Atlantic states have government-run lotteries. In addition, various states in the region sanction bingo, dog racing, horse and/or harness racing, jai alai, numbers games, off-track betting, and betting on professional football.

New Jersey is the only northeastern state so far to legalize casino gambling, but it may not be the last. In a Nov. 2 referendum, New Jersey voters overwhelmingly approved a measure to establish and regulate Nevada-style gambling casinos in Atlantic City. Although the first casinos are not expected to be in operation before the end of 1977, at the earliest, land values in the decaying seaside resort have begun to soar.

Fearful of losing tourists to Atlantic City, resort owners in the Catskill Mountains region of New York and the Pocono Mountains region of Pennsylvania are exploring ways of obtaining legislative authority to establish their own gambling operations. If they succeed, casino gambling could spread to other nearby states. As the growth of lotteries throughout the Northeast showed, no state wants its residents' legalized-gambling dollars to enrich a neighboring state's treasury.

Legalized gambling may be a "painless" way of raising state revenue, but it is notoriously inefficient. A lottery returns to the state only about 40 cents of every dollar taken in, with 45 cents going for prizes and 14 cents for overhead and administrative expenses. In contrast, states spend only about five cents to collect each tax dollar.

People who hit the jackpot in state lottery drawings soon find that their winnings are considerably less than advertised. Winners of a million-dollar drawing commonly receive their money in 20 annual installments of $50,000, all of which is taxable. Thus, an "instant millionaire" with no other source of income would actually receive about $30,000 a year after taxes.

Authorities on gambling argue that legal betting in this country will never be truly competitive with illegal wagering until winners' prizes are tax free, as they are in almost all countries that operate national lotteries. The bettor who patronizes a bookie receives his winnings in untraceable cash, little of which is ever declared for income-tax purposes.

Opponents of casino gambling in New Jersey contend that Atlantic City will be overrun by organized crime, as Nevada's casinos were in the late 1940s and early 1950s. Writing in Commonweal magazine, Thomas B. Mechling asserted that "The unaccountability, untraceability of cash money used in casinos — unlike the numbered tickets in state lotteries, horse betting, etc. — makes them ideal for the laundering" of money from unlawful pursuits.

Still, gambling's allure remains powerful for citizen and government alike. No matter how long the odds, millions still dream of hitting it big at the lottery, the track or the gaming table. The lucky few who actually do so keep alive the hopes of the unlucky many who consistently wager more than they win.

Secrecy covers conflicts

Jack Anderson

With LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Our most hush-hush intelligence agency is the National Reconnaissance Office, which operates America's spy satellites. The strict secrecy, however, has provided the NRO's top policymakers with a convenient cover for hiding conflicts of interest.

Our sources estimate that the NRO spends at least $1.5 billion a year. Huge secret contracts are handed out to fortunate, favored companies. Because the spy-in-the-sky technology cannot be revealed for security reasons, the contracting process is hidden from the public.

But we can report a few interesting facts, which have nothing to do with military security:

The NRO draws its top policymakers from the White House, Pentagon and Central Intelligence Agency. One seat on the policy board, for example, is assigned to the undersecretary of the Air Force. In 1973, this sensitive seat went to James Plummer, who came to the Air Force from Lockheed Corporation.

At Lockheed, he had been in charge of developing spy satellites. He had an 18-year record of loyalty to the corporation. Then overnight he was in a position to help determine which companies would get the juicy satellite contracts.

This was an obvious conflict, which was taken up quietly with Senate Armed Services Chairman John Stennis (D.-Miss.). He is known inside the Senate as "The Whitewasher."

In a letter to Stennis, Plummer pledged that he had agreed "to serve as undersecretary for three and one half years minimum." He added solemnly: "I have no agreement, express or implied, with Lockheed and no understanding respecting re-employment." He later repeated both pledges under oath.

Yet last June, Plummer notified his superiors in the Pentagon that he was quitting, although he had served only two and one half, not three and one half years. Thereafter, he returned to the Lockheed payroll as vice president in charge of the corporation's Missiles and Space Company at Sunnyvale, Calif.

While Plummer was riding the merry-go-round between the Pentagon and Lockheed, the corporation was the nation's top spy satellite contractor.

Another passenger on the merry-go-round was Albert Hall, who started out with Martin Marietta from 1958 to 1963. He moved into the Pentagon for the next two years, then back to Martin Marietta from 1965 to 1971. Finally, he returned to the Pentagon again as assistant defense secretary in charge of intelligence.

This position gives Hall a seat on NRO's policy board, where he, too, has influence over the spy satellite program. Martin Marietta, it turns out, builds booster rockets for spy satellites.

Footnote: A Defense Department spokesman said all military contracts are awarded according to law, but he refused to respond to specific questions about the secret reconnaissance contracts.

Plummer was asked to remain at his post, according to the Pentagon, in the interest of continuity. Safeguards were taken to avoid any conflicts, Pentagon officials said. Both Plummer and Hall denied any conflicts; both insisted they were not involved in contract decisions affecting their former companies.

Plummer said he left the Pentagon early to return to Lockheed for "personal" reasons. Hall, currently an Air Force consultant, acknowledged collecting huge termination payments from Martin Marietta while on the Pentagon payroll, but said this was perfectly proper.

Soviet martyr—The Soviet prison system is developing another Soviet martyr. His name is Hillel Butman, a Jew, who had heard about an attempt to hijack an Aeroflot airliner but had not been involved in the plot.

He was arrested anyway, his friends tells us, because he was acquainted with the conspirators and was an active Zionist. Before the Soviet secret police had finished with him, he had been sentenced to 10 years in the bleak Soviet penal system.

It takes rare courage in Russia for a prisoner to speak out against his jailers, who have the power to make his life unbearable. But like Alexander Solzhenitsyn before him, Hillel Butman has dared to defy his oppressors.

He has written a devasting, tongue-in-cheek letter to his warden — the chief of the Perm Soviet labor camp. The unpublished letter reverses their roles, elevating Butman to prison chief and placing the chief in one of Perm's cells.

"Like every healthy Soviet prisoner," Butman explains to his imaginary prisoner, "you have a sick heart, a sick stomach and sick teeth; neurosis, gastritis and paradentesis."

We in America, in our Lilliputian practicality and historic good future, have evolved a free press to undertake the role that in a tyranny falls to the lonely hero.

Bubble bath warning asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Friday proposed warning labels for bubble bath preparations, saying they can cause skin and urinary tract irritation — particularly among children.

The warning was proposed by the Food and Drug Administration, which also said the powder-type bubble bath can cause "respiratory discomfort" if inhaled as it is dumped into the water.

"Prolonged or excessive use of bubble bath products contributes significantly to the high incidence of adverse reactions in users, particularly children," the FDA said in a statement.

The proposal was published in Friday's Federal Register, inviting comment from interested parties over the next 60 days, and would go into effect six months after publication in final form.

As initially proposed, the warning label would say:

"Caution — Use only as directed. Excessive use or prolonged exposure may cause irritation to skin and urinary tract. Discontinue use if rash, redness or itching occur. Consult your physician if irritation persists. Keep out of reach of children."

"The tabulations and analyses of the reports of consumer injury received by the FDA show that many commercial bubble bath products have caused adverse reactions," the FDA said.

"The majority of injuries and the most severe injuries, i.e., genitourinary tract disorders, were reported in children, particularly female children."

The FDA said producers agreed in 1971 to reduce amounts of at least one suspected irritant in bubble bath.

'Roots' TV show at root of school riot

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UPI) — Fighting broke out Friday between dozens of black and white students at Hot Springs High School who had been exchanging remarks about the television show "Roots."

Supt. Bruce Meeks said three students were slightly injured. Classes were dismissed about 1 p.m. for the rest of the day.

"There were no weapons involved," Meeks said. "Just fist fights, pushing and shoving. By not having any more injuries than we had, it had to be minor but it was enough to cause a disturbance."

He said the television series, which traces the history of a black family from Africa to the United States, had been causing quite a bit of controversy at the school.

Several students got into a shoving match before classes began but it was broken up. During the lunch hour, students again began "pushing and shoving" each other, Meeks said.

State Police were called to the school then and the situation was brought under control. Meeks said "quite a few" students were sent home from school and a few others were taken to jail by police.

"Most of the students are not mature enough to handle that," Meeks said about the television program. "It was a little heavy for some in each race and, of course, those are the ones who institigated it (the trouble)."

The "Roots" program continues through Sunday and "we don't know how we're going to handle that yet," Meeks said. "We anticipate there will be school Monday."

Guerrillas kill Spanish police

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Urban guerrillas attacked two police patrols with bombs and submachine guns Friday, killing three policemen. The government ordered the arrest of "all extremists" and put up roadblocks on all highways leading from the capital.

Premier Adolfo Suarez called an emergency meeting of the cabinet to consider sterner measures against the escalating political violence which has plunged Spain into its worst crisis since the death of dictator Francisco Franco.

Court erred on testimony

Boyle gets new trial

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — (UPI) — The state Supreme Court Friday ordered a new trial for W. A. "Tony" Boyle, the former United Mine Workers president now serving a life term for plotting the assassination of union insurgent Joseph A. (Jock) Yablonski.

Boyle, 74, was convicted in April, 1974 of first degree murder for his alleged plot in the shotgun slayings of Yablonski, his wife, Margaret, and daughter, Charlotte, who were killed as they slept in their rural home in Clarksville, Pa. on Dec. 31, 1969.

Yablonski had just lost the union's presidential election to Boyle, the incumbent. But he had challenged the election and sought a federal investigation of it.

Boyle was described as "elated" when his attorney, A. Charles Peruto, talked to him by telephone at the Western State Correctional Institution in Pittsburgh where the former UMW president is serving his life term.

The court, in a 6-1 ruling, held that the lower court erred in not permitting defense testimony from Thomas Kane, a federal government auditor.

After the court's opinion, Boyle's attorneys immediately moved for bail and said they expected some kind of answer next week. A spokeman for Peruto said Boyle is "definitely eligible" for bail.

W.A. 'Tony' Boyle

A spokesman for Richard A. Sprague, the former first assistant district attorney of Philadelphia who was the special prosecutor in the Yablonski case, said the prosecutor would have no comment until he reads the Supreme Court's opinion.

Sprague is now chief counsel for the House committee investigating the assassinations of President Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr.

Kenneth Yablonski, one of two surviving sons, also had no comment on the decision.

The Commonwealth charged that Boyle organized the conspiracy to kill Yablonski.

The defense maintained that other union officials had initiated the conspiracy and hired the killers without Boyle's knowledge because they were afraid Yablonski would expose UMW financial mismanagement.

Kane was to testify about a possible motive for the slaying on the part of William Turnblazer, and Albert Pass, president and secretary-treasurer respectively of UMW District 19.

Eight persons, including Turnblazer and Pass and three triggermen, either pleaded guilty or were convicted of charges stemming from the Yablonski slaying.

Peruto, who became Boyle's attorney after his conviction, said the ordeal left the defendant "shocked and somewhat weak. He's gone through hell for the last five years. Now we finally have vindication and at this point, I'm even afraid to tell him good news."

But the attorney said he talked to Boyle and "of course, he's elated."

The court, in the majority opinion written by Justice Michael J. Eagen, said Boyle, "clearly should have been allowed to show Pass and Turnblazer had a notive for killing Yablonski which he did not share...."

Legionnaires disease mystery 'unsettled'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y. said Friday a report by the Center for Disease Control that it identified a rare bacterium as the possible cause of the Philadelphia Legionnaires disease does not settle the mystery.

Murphy was chairman of a consumer protection subcommittee that held hearings in Philadelphia last December on how the CDC handled the inquiry into the cause of the disease that killed 29 persons and left scores of others ill after they attended an American Legion convention last summer.

The CDC announced recently it discovered previously unidentified bacteria which offered the best indication yet as to the cause of the mysterious disease.

The discovery, said Murphy, "in no way closes the case."

Murphy gave up the subcommittee chairmanship to head the Merchant Marine Committee but a spokesman for his successor, Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., said "Mr. Eckhardt intends to pursue the investigation."

Murphy said "leading researchers and state health officials still have well-founded doubts about the new bacterium and we have yet to determine its source or the means by which it was transmitted."

"Committee testimony from dozens of scientists and medical specialists presented the possibility of the cause of death as various gases, bacteria,, viruses and toxins with the preponderance of early evidence pointing to the intentional introduction of certain toxic substances as a likely cause," he said.

Headache from boss?

Dear Ann: My boss has had affairs with one or more women ever since I have been his secretary (ten years). He is an important man in the community and has kept his secret very well. His wife suspects nothing because he does his cheating during office hours.

We've never discussed his double life. He has a private phone which I've been instructed never to answer and that's that. My only "involvement" is to tell his colleagues he is at some fakey place when he disappears during office hours. But lately my migraines have been getting worse.

My husband says what the boss does is none of my business — that I'm there to do my work. Period.

I've thought of going to a shrink but I'm afraid he'll tell me to quit my job and I can't afford to. I'm 50 years old and employment isn't all that easy to find. What can you suggest?

Georgia Fix

Dear G.: If these shenanigans have been going on for ten years, I doubt that your migraines are in any way related. Since they are "getting worse," I suggest you get a complete physical and find out if there is an organic problem. If there is none, perhaps it might be a good idea to do a little shrinking and find out what is REALLY bothering you.

———

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell us what could be wrong with three 16-year-old girls whose main topic of conversation for the last year has been what we would do if we got pregnant, how we'd tell our parents, what reaction we would expect from our boyfriends, whether we'd have an abortion, go to a home for unwed mothers, or keep the baby if the guy didn't want to get married.

This letter is no joke. There is no one else we can ask without letting them know we are involved in heavy sex. Please help us. —

Topics A, B And C In Chillicothe

Dear ABC: "The thought is often the father of the deed." In this instance substitute the word mother for father.

Each of you needs to speak to a school counselor at once. The kind of fantasizing you girls are into suggests serious trouble ahead.

Never mind about revealing yourselves. School counselors are there to help, not to pass judgment.

———

Dear Ann: I've been dating Brad for 3½ years. He's 24. I'm 22. We are in love.

A year ago my family moved 1500 miles from here. I with them. A few months later Brad got a good job and asked me to move back so I could be near him. I agreed.

In October, Brad received a promotion and had to move 100 miles away. We see each other twice a month. Brad wants me to give up my job and move to where he is. I said I would but this time I want a ring.

Brad resents the pressure — says AFTER I move I'll get the ring. I feel I've done my part by moving 1500 miles and it's his turn now. What do you say? —

Camp Follower

Dear Camp: If Brad wants to marry you he'll give you the ring now. If he refuses, take the hint and mother other friends.

Rates herself low

NEVER?: (Q.) I don't know whether I love this boy Denny or it's just a crush. I do know that he'll never like me. Why should he? He can have any girl he wants. He's handsome and I'm fat and ugly.

Another thing is that he wants to have sex with all the girls he goes with and I'm not that kind of girl. Should I forget about him or what? I am 14. —

Ignored In Alabama

(A.) Whether it is just a crush or not, you are rating Denny far too high and yourself far too low. You need to know Denny much better, and you need to put more value upon yourself.

If you value yourself and can handle yourself, you won't have to worry about Denny's reputation for sex. You can keep that under control.

Get into conversations with him. Let him know you exist, that you are there. And don't downgrade yourself. Instead, improve yourself, including your appearance. Slim down and make the best of your good points.

———

DROPOUT: (Q.) Girls won't date me, so I quit school to get away from it all. I am 16 and should be in the tenth grade. Should I go back to school or what? —

Troubled In Oklahoma

(A.) You are interested in girls and will be interested in them for a long time. An education is important to you and will be for a long time. Running away from either girls or an education is no answer.

Get back into school as quickly as you can. Keep yourself clean and neat. Study and concentrate on your work. And ask your counselor (you will be assigned to one) to help you with your problems, including girls.

One problem, I am sure, is that you don't give a girl a chance to know you before asking her for a date. You have to talk to a girl, get acquainted with her, so that she can know you are human and reasonable and likeable. Then she will have a better concept of what you are, and maybe she will like you enough to date you.

———

ASKING: (Q.) I have this problem with this girl Lara. Ever since our graduation dance last spring, I've been trying to ask her out. I like her a real lot and she also likes me.

But I am a shy kid. I've asked her in letters, but she doesn't answer. I've also tried to tell her on the phone, but I couldn't. So I'd like to know what to do. By the way, we're both 14.

No Luck In Connecticut

(A.) You have to face the fact that millions of boys have thought they couldn't ask a girl out, but somewhere they've found the courage to do so.

You can do it, either on the phone or in person. In person is preferable. I agree with you that letters are not the right way to ask a girl to go out with you.

Talk to Lara today. While you are talking; just say; "I would like a lot to have you go out with me." If she says she would like it too, arrange a time and place.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead — five of spades.

This deal occurred in a team of four match. At the first table, where North-South were playing weak notrump bids (12 to 14 points), South got to three notrump and West led a spade. Declarer followed low from dummy, hoping that West had led away from the K-Q. East won the trick with the queen and returned the nine of spades to dummy's ace.

South realized that the spades were probably divided 5-3 and that he therefore could not afford to lead hearts to force out the ace. So he entered his hand with a diamond, let the ten of clubs and finessed. The finesse succeeding, he repeated it and wound up making five notrump.

At the second table, the bidding and opening lead were exactly the same. Again East won the first trick with the queen of spades. But at trick two, this East varied the defense by returning the deuce of spades instead of the nine.

This unusual return made it appear to declarer that East had started with four spades to the queen — especially after West followed suit with the eight, deliberately concealing his four of spades.

It is hard to blame declarer for proceeding on the assumption that the spades were divided 4-4. He decided that he could not afford the luxury of a club finesse, because if the finesse lost he would surely go down one, losing three spades, a club and a heart.

Instead, South led a heart at trick three, expecting to lose one heart trick and three spades, and thus make three notrump. But East went up with the ace of hearts, returned the nine of spades, and poor South went down one as a result of the grand illusion that East-West had succeeded in creating.

Need for volunteers grows with hospital's expansion

FOLLOW THE LEADER — Mrs. Paula Pierson, right, chairman of Pocono Hospital's escort service, checks the doctor's order slip for Donna Capristo of Tannersville before guiding her to the right department. Opening the new Jordan Pavilion has caused some patients to become lost.

EAST STROUDSBURG — With the opening of the Jordan Pavilion, Pocono Hospital's need for more volunteers has risen.

One new type of volunteer service has been established because of the new wing, according to hospital director of volunteer services, Mrs. Evelyn Primrose.

The newest volunteer position is an escort service in the out patient department. "Pink ladies", named for their pink smocks, escort patients and visitors to various parts of the hospital.

Mrs. Primrose said this service began in November because both patients and visitors were getting lost.

Messengers, another volunteer service, are on duty six days a week from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. With extra volunteers this function could be expanded to cover the full day.

Their duties include carrying charts from nurses' stations and delivering medical equipment, consultation slips, newsletters and other items to various departments.

The medical records department needs a file and microfilm clerk. Anyone who has had some experience would be most welcome in assisting with this function.

Clerical assistants are always helpful in many areas through-out the hospital. This consists of typing, duplicating, tabulating patient questionnaries, addressing mailings and many other similar office procedures.

In the Pocono area there are many people who have artistic talents and have made great contributions to the patients' rooms by donating paintings.

About 100 pictures have already been hung making the hospital more attractive. This is an on-going project, the ultimate goal of which is to have a picture by each patient's bed.

Several of these paintings were donated without frames and could enhance rooms if someone supplied frames.

Talents such as hand lettering and making posters could be utilized in various departments.

Volunteers provide manpower for the Hospitality Shop such as cashiering, organizing the magazines and cards, and many other duties. A minimum of one person is needed daily on each shift.

The shifts are Monday through Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. 1:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. and Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. 12:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Another service which the patients appreciate is the daily visit of the hospitality cart to their rooms. They may purchase necessary items such as toiletries, candy, gifts, and magazines.

The cart circulates Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. until it has made the tour of all the patients' rooms. Two volunteers are needed daily for this service.

Persons who are interested in working in the new medical library soon to be opened in expanded quarters, will be providing a necessary educational service to the medical staff, student nurses, lab students and fourth year medical students.

This will involve various activities including checking out books, journals, and audio-visual materials.

By donating their time volunteers help to keep health care costs down. The greatest reward for a volunteer is to see the appreciation patients show for the kindness of their help.

Presently the hospital has about 150 volunteers. Mrs. Primrose said that they serve varying amounts of time, with some people working only once a month.

She added that the escort and messenger services are the most demanding because of the amount of walking that is required.

Any men or women interested in volunteering for any of these activities may contact Mrs. Primrose at the hospital, 421-4000, ext. 756.

FILL 'ER UP — Messenger Mrs. Eleanore Holmes fills a jar with distilled water in the hospital's central supply center before taking it and other supplies to various departments. Volunteers do not need physicals before they can work at the hospital.

Florida's citrus executive predicts 3 cent frozen juice concentrate hike

LAKELAND, Fla. — No one, including the head of the Florida Department of Citrus, knows how extensive damage has been from the recent freeze.

However, department executive director Edward A. Taylor predicted that the price of frozen orange concentrate would increase only three cents above the pre-freeze price for a six-ounce can.

"Prices will fluctuate and respond to the competition pressures of your area. Right now I believe the season average will come out at only three cents a six-ounce can of concentrate more than before the freeze," Taylor said.

He made his comments in a formal statement attempting to minimize reports of extensive crop losses and coming price increases.

On Monday a federal agricultural economist told The Record that bumper crops in California and Texas should keep the price of fresh citrus from soaring.

He said that 90 per cent of the Florida crop is used for frozen orange concentrate.

Taylor said that juice is still being processed because the freeze didn't affect the quality of the juice, just the amount of it.

He added that the amount of juice that can be taken from the remaining crop will be reduced but no one is certain how much it will be lowered.

In his statement, Taylor said that damage may not be as extensive as some estimates and that the effect on prices "should be as extensive" as some reports indicate.

"No one knows at this point exactly how extensive the damage is," he said. "Our orange crop was forecast to be 18 per cent larger than last year's record crop.

"Even with the freeze, our final production available for sale is likely to be about the same as the 1975-76 season when we produced 192.2 million gallons of concentrate due to the large carryover at the start of the season."

Taylor said that a freeze in 1962 caused extensive damage which affected the size of the citrus crop for several yers.

However, he added that different conditions should cause this year's damage to be not as great as the 1962 freeze.

"Our groves are much older now and no extensive new planting of groves has been made. Our trees were dormant at the time of the freeze. Both factors contribute to minimizing tree damage," he said.

He also predicted that a "good supply" of fresh oranges and grapefruit will still be available from Florida groves after the embargo is lifted next week.

Chinese paper cutting easy

By PHYLLIS FIAROTTA

NEW YORK — Dragons will dance in the streets of Chinese communities all over the world to welcome the Chinese New Year on Feb. 18. Firecrackers will explode, parades will be organized and we will be reminded once again of the culture of ancient China.

The richness and beauty of Chinese artwork includes elaborate rugs requiring years of work by skilled artisans. Other Chinese art forms — the paper cutting project given here, for example — are simple enough for the neophyte craftsman to bring off. Butterly and dog patterns are traditional for this paper craft.

Basically a project which requires few materials, paper cutting is an ideal rainy day activity for the kids.

1. The design is placed on a boxed network called a grid. This grid is one square equals one half inch. If you do not know how to enlarge a pattern on a grid, send your request for grid information with a stamped, self-addressed, businessp-size envelope to The Leisure Craftsman in care of The Pocono Record.

2. If you are going to color your paper cuts, use white rice paper (available at an art supply store). Otherwise regular colored paper may be used.

3. Draw the grid and the design on a sheet of light-eight tracing paper.

4. On the back of the drawing, rub the point of a soft pencil over the the lines.

5. Place the drawing, back side facing down, on the rice paper. Trace heavily along the design with a pencil to transfer the drawing to the rice paper.

6. Use a cuticle scissors to carefully cut out the design and all inner areas.

7. Next, soak the rice paper cut in water. Swirl a paint brush in watercolor paint, then dab it on the wet cut, allowing the paint to bleed on the wet paper to create a "wash" effect. Dab color on only a few key areas.

8. Place a weight over the paper cut so it will dry flat. Once dry, it's ready for framing.

Curiosities in medicine

Dr. William Butler, physician in attendance to King James I, used a method of treatment that could hardly have been considered orthodox medicine.

When a patient came to him with vague symptoms that seemed to have no validity, he took the patient out on his balcony to discuss the problem. Suddenly, a group of the doctor's cohorts would pick up his patient and throw him over the balcony and into the Thames River. There, he was picked up by a man in a rowboat and brought back to shore.

Dr. Butler was confident of this form of treatment for the hypochondriacal patient. Psychologically-oriented doctors today shudder at the thought!

Riding a stationary indoor bicycle is an excellent form of exercise. In the 17th century, Dr. George Cheyne recognized this and learned that he could accomplish exercise and the loss of weight by riding a hobby horse. He wrote to a friend and said, "I wonder you get not the chamber-horse which is now so universally known in London. It is certainly admirable and has all the good and admirable effects of a hard trotting horse, except for the fresh air. I ride an hour every morning and will do more when weather will not permit me to walk in my garden or ride in my coach."

There really is not much that is new, is there?

Quackery, which abounds today, has had its counterpart in history for many centuries. In the 14th century, a false physician claimed that he was able to cure the sick with a special parchment applied to the body of those afflicted with a variety of disorders.

When his quackery was exposed, he was led on an unsaddled horse through the streets of London. He was obliged to ride the animal facing the tail, to which he clung desperately for his very life.

A urine flask was hung before him, and another on his back, to emphasize his exploitation of the sick.

The loud trumpets that accompanied him proclaimed to the townspeople that they should not fall prey to his "parchment lies."

Modern quacks who today flourish on the gullibility of the unsuspecting, trusting patient . . . beware!

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH . . . Reading and studying deserve the best possible lighting advantages. A low watt bulb is a poor economy when it causes eyestrain.

DR. COLEMAN welcomes letters from readers. Please write to him in care of The Pocono Record.

Planners oppose idea

National park campsites considered

By SHERRIE SPANGLER
Pocono Record Reporter

BUSHKILL — National Park Service planning officials have recommended that drive-in, family campsites should not be proposed for the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area and they are considering charging an entrance fee for the park.

Local, regional and Denver park officials met this week with representatives of Pennsylvania and New Jersey groups interested in the future of the national park. The park encompasses more than 48,000 acres stretching along the Delaware River for 35 miles between the Delaware Water Gap and Port Jervis, N.Y.

The group responded to park service recommendations for a general management plan for development of the park. The recommendations are based on public comment and on an environmental assessment of the area, according to David Kimball, Chief of Planning for the Mid-Atlantic Region of the National Park Service.

Whether to have family camping facilities or charge a fee are two of the decisions that must be made before the general management plan and an environmental impact statement can be made. Officials said the earliest they would be done would be May 1.

Those reports would then be reviewed by an advisory council and the federal Department of the Interior and should be ready for public review next year.

The recommendation that there be no family camping, except for continuation of the campground in Worthington State Forest, was opposed by several people at the meeting.

Alfred Guido, acting director of the New Jersey Department of Parks and Forestry, said, "If you have no family camping you'll be making a major mistake. You'll have a proliferation of 'trailer parks' around the park edge and a lot of traffic back and forth."

Kimball said there are about 12,000 campsites within a 30-mile radius of the park. "It would be hard to justify family camping in the park when there are so many sites available within a reasonable distance," he said.

However, Mrs. Mina Haefele, president of the Delaware Valley Conservation Assn., said "People who have spent the whole day in the park won't want to drive 30 miles to get to a campsite."

Several people said that even if family camping isn't proposed for the early phases of park development, the plan being drawn up should recognize that it may be needed in the future.

The Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau and its member private campground owners have opposed family camping in the park. They have pointed out that there are about 3,000 private campground campsites in the Poconos which are seldom filled and they object to government competition with private enterprise.

There also were mixed opinions about whether to charge an entrance fee at the park.

Kimball said planners were thinking about decreasing the number of access points for cars and charging an entrance fee, but said they had no specific plans.

Conrad Lickel, representing the state Department of Environmental Resources, said it might be better to only charge fees for using certain facilities. "There are many people who feel there shouldn't be a fee for entering a public park, and there are some people who couldn't afford it," he said.

Mrs. Haefele favored allowing people to enter the park free if they weren't in a car. But she said there should be a fee for cars, "because they put a special drain on the environment."

Guido said charging a flat fee per car, rather than per person, should drastically cut down on the number of cars using the park.

He said New Jersey state parks tried that tactic last summer with successful results. While park use went up five per cent, the number of cars entering the parks went down 40 per cent, Guido said.

In the area of park programs, Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis, coordinator of the Four-County Task Force for Monroe, Pike, Warren and Sussex counties, said planners' recommendations didn't deal enough with promoting the history of the park region.

"If a child is hiking and knows that the area played an important part in the opening of the frontier, he'll enjoy it more," she said.

Other recommendations by the planners, which were accepted by those at the meeting, included opening three or four more protected beaches on the Delaware River; having more hiking, fishing and canoeing facilities; and continuing to allow motor boats on the river but trying to keep them away from swimming areas.

Legality of closing

OTTAWAY NEWS SERVICE
Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — Gov. Milton J. Shapp used his "supreme executive power" when he ordered Pennsylvania's public, private and parochial schools closed this week, Attorney General Robert P. Kane said Friday.

"When the utility people informed the governor they would have to go for a 60 per cent curtailment for schools, the Health Department people were called in and asked to translate it into what it means to the health of children," Kane said.

"What the 60 per cent curtailment was found to mean, was that temperatures would be between 50 and 55 degrees in the classroom."

That temparature, Kane said, would have posed a "very serious health problem" for younger students, and the decision was made, considering the dimension of the problem.

For The Record

The name of Floyd A. Edinger was misspelled in the hospital notes in Friday's Record.

Dave Miller is not the manager of the Sherman and Grand theaters, as was reported Friday. He is the assistant manager.

Pennsylvania ski areas 'essential' enough to stay open

By STEPHEN E. DRACHLER
Ottaway News Service
Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania ski areas have been designated "essential industries" and will remain open during the energy crisis, the state Commerce Department said Friday.

Paul R. Decker, director of the Commerce Department's Bureau of Travel Development, said ski area operators have volunteered to cut back on their consumption of energy, but will stay open during the crisis.

"Ski operators are 100 per cent willing to do whatever they can to reduce energy consumption," Decker said. "They are not making snow and have reduced heat in their lodges, realizing there is a sensitivity,"

Decker said ski areas and related businesses are in the midst of their most successful season in many years, and to close down because of the energy crisis now would be unjustified and unnecessary."

The ski industry "is not contributing to the problem" but is willing to contribute without going out of business,' Decker said.

"We don't consider ourselves in the ski or travel industries non-essential," Decker said. "And we don't want to get back to 1973 where travel, a $70 billion industry, is considered non-essential."

Gov. Milton J. Shapp has urged all commercial establishments to take "severe measures" to avoid a major crisis where homes might go without heat during this weekend. He went on public television Thursday night to get the point across to the state's 11 million residents.

Decker said the 1973 energy crisis hit the ski industry hard and forced some operators out of business because "of people who said get people off of the roads and save fuel."

The only energy ski operators use is for operation of lifts and lodge facilities. Natural gas is not used to any large extent by the state's ski areas, Decker said.

"One operator said he could turn off the heat in lodges, if they get 150 skiers in the lodge for lunch. Then they don't need heat.

"They (ski areas) have a low utilization of (energy) resources, when you consider it is an outdoor environment they operate in," Decker said.

The main skiing areas that will benefit by remaining open this weekend are in the Poconos, Decker said, where weather conditions are expected to be ideal for skiing. In the western portion of the state high winds and severe weather are expected to keep skiers off the roads and at home.

Matilda Harrison, spokesman for the Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau in Stroudsburg, said Friday all the region's ski areas are open for the weekend, although one, Camelback, has cancelled night skiing because of the energy crisis.

"You can't just close down a major industry," Mrs. Harrison said. "We employ thousands and it would cause a major hardship."

She said the Vacation Bureau checked with utilities serving the Poconos and were told there would be no problem caused by ski areas and resorts remaining open for the weekend. She said the utilities use coal to produce electricity.

However, she noted that ski areas are going to cut back lift operations, snowmaking and reduce the temperature inside their lodge and other facilities.

"We've gotten many calls today," she said, "but they were mostly from people concerned about the weather conditions, not the energy situation."

He fed squirrels peanuts

Crime victim called 'considerate'

STROUDSBURG — Horrendous, horrible and senseless were only some of the words neighbors of Franklin C. Bachman used Friday in describing their feelings about Thursday's murder.

"I'm sure no one in the neighborhood will feel safe until those criminals are caught," one neighbor said.

"It's a shame when poor people can't even sit in their homes anymore," another added.

Neighbors described Bachman, as well as his wife and father-in-law, as kind and considerate.

"He was a very pleasant man to have around," a neighbor said. "A gem of a person."

One neighbor who has lived next to Fetherman Street since 1912 could not remember any other violent crimes in the area.

The murder caused him to recollect a fatal traffic accident that had occurred some 10 years ago at the corner of Fetherman Street and Dreher Avenue, a corner only one house away from Bachman's.

Although residents of the neighborhood didn't visit one another often, as one person said, he often saw Bachman outside during the summertime feeding peanuts to squirrels.

No one had any idea why anyone would pick Bachman's home for the target of a robbery.

The neighborhood is small, walled in by W. Main Street on one side, the Stroudsburg Foundry on another and the wall of concrete of an Interstate 80 exit ramp on yet another side.

On Friday afternoon, several police cars were outside the murder site at 10 Fetherman St. In Bachman's lawn stood a flagpole without a flag and a bird feeder that was full of seed.

Noise from the foundry and Interstate 80 mixed with the din from earthmoving machines at work extending a sewer line along Dreher Avenue.

Several persons in cars drove down Fetherman Street, slowing down in front of number 10 and craning their necks to glimpse the modest- single-level home.

As late afternoon shadows fell on Fetherman Street, a large black dog of indefinite lineage was patrolling the sidewalks. The dog eyed strangers with suspicion.

Entire S-burg police force hunting murder suspects

By MIKE JOSEPH
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg police intensified their investigation Friday into the murder of Franklin C. Bachman, the 70-year-old Fetherman Street resident who was shot in his home late Thursday night.

Directed by Police Chief John Baujan, the entire force is conducting a major search for four suspects, three of whom kicked open the kitchen door at about 9:40 p.m. when Bachman, his wife Grace, 49, and his father-in-law, Adam Berger, 77, were asleep.

The fourth suspect stayed outside during the robbery and murder.

Police have only minimal descriptions to go on because the intruders wore ski masks. No suspects were named by late Friday night.

Baujan, pointing at robbery as the apparent motive, has so far made the following information public:

The Bachmans and Berger had gone to bed at about 8:30 p.m., as was their custom. Bachman and his wife slept in one bedroom and Berger slept in another.

The noise of shattering glass woke all three up at about 9:40 p.m.

After apparently cutting the telphone line and television cable, three suspects walked through an unlocked door at the rear of the garage.

At Bachman's residence, the garage and home form a single structure.

The intruders kicked open a door from the garage to the kitchen, tearing off the jamb and shattering the glass.

One of the suspects went into Berger's bedroom and struck him once or twice across the side of his neck with a pistol or hand. Berger wasn't sure which.

The suspect commanded Berger to crawl along a passageway to the Bachman's bedroom, where Berger was bound hand and foot, gagged, and tied to the foot of the bed.

Other intruders had tied Mrs. Bachman and ordered her to stay in the bed.

They tied Mrs. Bachman and Berger with sashline about a quarter of an inch thick, the type of rope used for some clotheslines. Police did not know where the rope had come from.

Intruders tied Bachman's feet with cord from the home's bathroom. While Bachman's hand were still free, he picked up a flashlight from near the bed and threw it at one of the robbers.

At that point one intruder shot Bachman once in the upper right part of his chest. The .22 caliber Remington highspeed slug lodged just beneath the skin at the rear of his armpit.

Monroe County Coroner Daniel G. Warner said autopsy results Friday showed that Bachman died from loss of blood.

Police found a cartridge shell on the floor and said only an automatic pistol would have ejected the shell.

What Mrs. Bachman earlier described as a silencer attached to the gun barrel was probably a compensator, police said. A compensator is a device that reduces the upward jump of the gunbarrel upon firing.

Police said neighbors probably did not hear the shot because the report of a .22 caliber firearm is not loud.

The intruders ransacked bureaus and closets in both bedrooms as well as hall closets, Baujan said.

They stole $200 in a check and currency from Mrs. Bachman's purse, but they did not find additional money that was kept in the house.

The suspects then used walkie-talkies to advise their counterpart outside somewhere that they would be ready in about two minutes.

Before they fled, the suspects threatened Mrs. Bachman and told her to remain in the house for three hours.

If no help had arrived in three hours, the suspects said they would notify authorities to go to the Bachman home.

A neighbor said Friday that at 10:05 p.m. Thursday night he got up to answer a knock at his door. Mrs. Bachman was at the door and asked for help, the neighbor said.

Mrs. Bachman and Berger were treated for shock at Pocono Hospital and released.

One of the ski mask hoods worn by the suspects was black with white trim and had openings only for his eyes. Another mask was brown and black.

One of the suspects spoke with what was described as a Brooklyn or New York City accent and was wearing a green quilted jacket, tan trousers and hush puppy shoes.

All three intruders wore gloves.

According to Sgt. David Shay, cooperation from neighbors and others who can help in the investigation has been good so far.

"I'm very pleased with the way the department is working on the investigation," Shay said.

Shay said even the tiniest bit of information that may seem unimportant to persons may be just what is needed to aid the investigation.

Sgt. Michael Chabal stressed that strict confidentiality will be enforced with anyone who comes forward with information.

Storm closes more doors than Shapp could

STROUDSBURG — Threats of a blizzard and an energy crisis persuaded some area businesses to close early Friday but, for the most part, businessmen played it by ear and waited for either snow or a state order to close.

Among the establishments which curtailed their normal business hours were most area banks, all state liquor stores and Oppenheim's at the Pocono Village Mall.

State stores are closed today and will open noon Monday. Oppenheim's will also open noon Monday but will have regular business hours today. Banks which closed early on Friday will reopen at their regular times Monday morning.

The Phoenix Players performance of "Blythe Spirit" was postponed Friday night but an additional performance will be held at 7 p.m. Sunday. Today's show will go on, as will Saturday's matinee.

Apparently no stores selling medicine or food have closed because of the weather or the energy shortage. These stores are considered essential and have not been asked by the state to shut down.

The president of the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association, Ed Miller, said the grapevine hasn't brought him word of any stores which plan to close over the weekend. A survey of some major stores and industries in the area showed that employes and customers can follow normal business schedules today and Monday.

One area businesswoman was more concerned with a winter storm heading for the area than with the energy crisis. She said, "If we can get to work, we'll be open. The only reason why we would shut down is if the state tells us we have to."

Miller said this attitude was the major problem facing businesses trying to make a decision to open or close. "Until it (the energy shortage) hits home," Miller said, "the problem is not going to be given the recognition it needs. Until it does hit the area I don't think there will be a move on the part of businesses or individuals to cut energy use."

He said there were no electrical or oil shortages in the area, a fact that made people suspicious of the reality of the problem.

But if Shapp decides to order all non-essential businesses to close, rather than simply asking them to do so, "Stroudsburg businessmen won't fight or react against an order to shutdown."

Without a shutdown order the decision to close is strictly up to the individual store owner, Miller said.

But the manager of Wyckoff's Department Store in Stroudsburg said merchants must act together and that many businessmen are waiting for a decision from the associa*tion before* they take action.

Gas gap pressures fuel

Oil supplies adequate for demand

STROUDSBURG — Although the state-wide energy crisis is supposed to include all fuel supplies, local oil distributors have more than enough to go around.

The only dark spot in the Monroe-Pike oil picture is a temporary cut-off of supplies to the BR Peters company in East Stroudsburg. Even this interruption creates no problem, according to company president Patrick Hickey.

"We still have a plentiful supply," Hickey said. "BR Peters will be able to handle the needs of our customers, but we are worried about our comrades west of Harrisburg."

Texaco, the supplier to the company, has rerouted oil to the western part of Pennsylvania and even into Ohio, where fuel is in short supply. Hickey said Texaco promised to restore service after the first of February and deliver the full monthly supply.

R. Bruce Miller of Stiff Oil Company in Stroudsburg said the natural gas shortage was creating a greater demand for fuel oil from industries which can no longer get gas. He said this may be the reason the state closed all schools, regardless of their energy source.

Neither Monroe County schools nor Delaware Valley and Bangor schools heat with natural gas, yet they all are closed until at least Tuesday.

Superintendents said the schools had a 2-3 week supply of fuel — an amount they termed adequate and normal.

Miller said "Supplies are very tight but we scrape around for it and are getting all that we need." He urged oil customers not to panic and demand that their fuel oil tanks be filled. He said this alone could create an oil shortage.

He stressed that his company had an adequate surplus, "not as big as last year, but still enough."

And H. John Davis, owner of Mount Pocono oil company said, "If I didn't buy another drop of oil, I would still have enough on hand to service my customers for several more weeks."

Hickey said customers should conserve as much energy as possible even though oil suplies are more than adequate. This will not only be more economical for the consumer but will free oil supplies for use in areas that need it more.

Walt's Diner purchased

STROUDSBURG — Walt's Diner, 1427 N. Fifth St., has been sold to John and Dolores Klingel of Stroudsburg R.D. 5 and re-named the J-D Diner.

Fifth Street Corp. of East Stroudsburg sold the property for $85,000. The previous operator, Walter Thompson, who had operated the diner for 16 years, has retired from the restaurant business. He had worked at the Colonial Diner in Stroudsburg for 23 years before opening his own operation.

The Klingels formerly owned and operated Klingel's Bar in Stroud Township and the Sciota Hotel in Hamilton Township. They plan to add a room to the J-D Diner next summer.

Three sentenced in Monroe Court

STROUDSBURG — Three adults were sentenced in Monroe County Court action Friday morning.

Richard Asero was fined $50 and sentenced to three months probation for a charge of disorderly conduct.

Andre Emile Lavergne was ordered to pay costs and retribution and was given two years probation for a charge of receiving stolen property.

Vicki E. Malin was sentenced to two years probation and will pay costs for a burglary charge.

In juvenile dispositions, Rosemary Schimmel was given a year's probation for a charge of criminal conspiracy.

David Arden Raymond Sigmund was committed to Allen*town State Hospital* for no more than 90 days for charges of theft, receiving stolen property, forgery, theft by deception, criminal conspiracy and criminal solicitation.

Leonard Grow was committed to the rehabilitation center at Pottsville on a charge of violating the controlled substance act.

52 Manor patients move into new wing

KELLERSVILLE — Fifty-two patients at Pleasant Valley Manor nursing home were moved to the home's new wing Friday morning.

The wing contains a first floor with 60 beds, completed in December, and a second floor shell. It is part of a $3.2 million project, which also includes remodeling of the old wing built in 1963.

The 52 patients, requiring skilled nursing care, had been housed in the old wing. There are 17 more patients, requiring intermediate care, remaining in the original building. That building doesn't meet standards for health care set by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, according to Charles Swisher, administrator of PVM.

Those 17 patients will occupy the old wing after it is remodeled, Swisher said, which should be in April. He said no plans have been made for future use of the old building, which was built in the 1920s.

Swisher said there are no major differences between the rooms in the old and new wings except for some of the occupancy sizes. The new wing contains 29 double rooms, one single room for "difficult" patients, and a single room that is kept open for patients needing intensive care.

The old wing had 52 beds, mostly in double rooms, but some were in four-bed rooms, Swisher said. It also contains two single-bed protective care rooms.

Sixty additional beds have been proposed for the second floor shell of the new wing. Swisher said PVM is waiting for approval from the Health Service Council in Allentown. He said he hopes to begin construction within a year if approval is granted.

The new wing also contains a dining room, which was used by patients after they were moved Friday. A new kitchen was built where the new and old wings meet.

There will be occupational and physical therapy facilities in the basement of the old wing after it is remodeled, Swisher said.

Remodeling plans also call for installing sprinkler systems and air-conditioning, making some changes in water pipes and lighting and installing a new heating system to be connected with the one in the new wing.

The amount of the bond issue to finance the first floor of the new wing and the remodeling is about $5 million, Swisher said. Additional bonds would be issued to cover completion of the second floor shell.

Schools discussed

STROUDSBURG — Rather than providing answers to superintendents about school closings, the state posed energy questions at a meeting of 13 area school districts Friday.

According to Kenneth Rounds, assistant executive director of the Colonial Northampton Intermediate Unit, the state Department of Education called the Nazareth office Friday morning and asked for information on fuel sources and supplies. The information will probably be used in deciding whether to reopen schools Tuesday.

Rounds said this call was only the second communication with Harrisburg since word came to the unit to close schools Wednesday afternoon.

Celtics beat Bucks to end slide; Nets lose again

BOSTON (UPI) — John Havlicek scored a season high 33 points and handed out nine assists Friday night as the Boston Celtics snapped a four-game losing streak with a 119-113 win over the Milwaukee Bucks.

The score was tied for the last time at 69-69 four minutes into the second half when the 37-year-old Havlicek put Boston ahead to stay with a medium-range jumper. The Bucks closed to within one and two points in the fourth quarter but each time Sidney Wicks, Steve Kuberski and Havlicek scored key hoops to keep the Celtics on top.

Milwaukee raced to a 23-8 lead late in the first quarter and led 47-36 midway through the second quarter, but Havlicek led a 13-2 spree with seven points to tie the score at 49-49. The score was tied at the half 57-57.

Kuberski and Jo Jo White added 16 points apiece for the Celtics and Wicks had 14. Junior Bridgeman topped Milwaukee with 28 and Dave Meyers added 22.

Phil Smith scored 10 of his 12 points in the first quarter and Barry added nine as the Warriors jumped to a 33-18 lead.

After trailing 56-36 at the half, the Nets closed the margin to 58-47 midway through the third quarter. But Barry scored eight of his 10 third-quarter points to halt the rally and put the Warriors ahead 73-55.

Connors advances to Philly semifinal

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors, hitting rocket-like returns from all over the court, advanced Friday night to the semifinals of the $200,000 U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis championships.

The 24-year-old defending champion downed veteran Tony Roche of Australia 6-2, 6-2 to join 12th-seeded Dick Stockton, and unseeded Cliff Drysdale and Jeff Borowiak in today's round.

Stockton defeated 10th-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia with surprising ease, 6-0, 6-3; the 35-year-old Drysdale knocked off South African countryman Bernie Mitton 2-6, 7-5, 6-3 and Borowiak ousted Vijay Amritraj of India 3-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Connors plays Drysdale and Stockton meets Borowiak in the semifinals with the winners meeting Sunday for the $40,000 first prize.

Connors held off his 31-year-old opponent by forcing him deep with both his attacking forehand and two-fisted backhand. When Roche would come to the net, Connors would hit cross-court bullets past him.

Roche won the first game of the second set, but Connors took the next five. After blowing two match points in the seventh game, Connors moved to a third match point in the eighth game with a forehand drop shot and won when Roche netted the ensuing serve.

Stockton, Carrollton, Tex., had the 4-year-old Rosewall running from side to side on the baseline in the first set. Although Rosewall came to life in the second set, Stockton was equal to the task with winning passing shots.

Stockton broke Rosewall in the sixth game of the second set with a brillant backhand return of service and served two love games to win the match.

Mitton, a 22-year-old top-ranked singles player in his country, appeared to be in command after winning the first set and going up 4-2 in the second set. But Drysdale squared the match by winning five of the next six games, taking the set when his opponent jammed a dropped shot into the net.

Mixing baseline drives with occassional rushes to the net, Drysdale broke Mitton's serve in the sixth game of the deciding set and later finished him off with a backhand drop shot.

Amritraj overpowered his opponent with powerful forehands in the first set, but Borowiak, a former NCAA singles champion, broke the Indian Davis Cupper's serve three times in the second set, the third time for a win.

Both players held serve for 11 games in the deciding set, although Amritraj had to fight off three match points in the 10th game. But in the 12th game, Borowiak hit two forehands up the line for winners, and finished Amritraj off when his opponent hit a volley over the baseline.

Minnesota 'Slims'

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Top-seeded Virginia Wade defaulted with an ankle injury while Rosie Casals, Olga Morozova and Martina Navratilova won quarter-final matches Friday night in the matches Friday night in the $100,000 Minnesota Virginia Slims tennis tournament.

Barker 6-5 in the first set of their best-of-three match, twisted her ankle while going for a shot, limped to the sidelines and after being examined by the trainer retired from the match and the tournament.

Barker, the No. 8 seed, advanced to tonight's semifinals against Casals, the No. 5 seed, who pulled a mild upset in defeating fourth-seeded Margaret Court 6-4, 7-5. In the other bracket, the seventh-seeded Morozova topped Mima Jausovec, who was unseeded, 7-6, 6-2. Morozova will face Navratilova, who defeated Natasha Chmyreva 6-4, 6-2.

The finals will be held Sunday afternoon and will be worth $20,000 to the winner and $10,000 to the runnerup.

COMPLETES PERFECT NIGHT — East Stroudsburg State College's Gary Kessel (top) controls Dan Morash during Kessel's 5-1 victory in their 150-pound bout Friday night. Kessel also scored a pin in a bout against Mansfield's John McCloud to give him two wins for the night, an 11-0 record and a team-high eight pins for the season.

Six wrestlers notch pins; ESSC tops Yale, Mansfield

EAST STROUDSBURG — Six different East Stroudsburg State College wrestlers had pins during the two matches as the Warriors defeated Yale, 25-13, and Mansfield, 42-3, in a wrestling triangular Friday night.

Randy Tillman (118), Sal Picone (142), Gary Kessel (150) and Jim Vargo (167) all pinned their opponents in the Mansfield match.

Greg Shoemaker (134) and Skip Falcone (167) were the pinners against Yale.

Kessel remained undefeated with two victories to raise his season's record to 11-0. His pin gave him eight, tops on the team.

The Warriors' captain decked John McCloud of Mansfield, a Pennsylvania Conference place-winner, after 3:52 of their match. He used a cradle.

Against Yale, however, Kessel was unable to turn over Dan Morash and he had to settle for his first regular decision of the campaign, 5-1.

Vargo's pin was the first of his career. The freshman from Riverside, now 6-2-1, downed Duane Hafer of Mansfield after 2:17 with a double front arm bar.

The Warriors dominated nearly every match against Mansfield, getting three superior decisions in addition to the pins.

The lone Mansfield win was a last-minute victory by Pat Kelley over Don Blair, 7-6, at 190 pounds. Kelley had two takedowns in the final minute including the winner with three seconds remaining.

The ESSC-Yale match was close for the first seven weights with each team winning three matches and tying one.

Shoemaker's pin was the difference in the score at the time with the Warriors holding a 14-11 edge. He put Dave Miller to the mat with a half nelson and arm bar after 4:35.

It marked the first time the sophomore from Easton was moved out of his normal 126-pound weight class. The change to 134 didn't seem to bother him as he raised his record to 7-1-1.

The other early winners against Hale were Tillman, who also had a perfect night with two wins, and Kessel. Vargo wrestled to a draw.

Falcone broke open the match with his sudden pin. The senior from Easton caught Jim Frank with a lightning-quick move, put Frank on his back and pinned him with a half nelson after only 44 seconds of action.

The Koehler Fieldhouse crowd gave Falcone its biggest hand of the night. The pin put the Warriors ahead, 20-11.

Don Lehman clinched the ESSC victory by battling Joe Cooper to a 6-6 draw. Cooper just missed a winning takedown at the buzzer.

In the finale, Bill Katinowsky proved to be the night's 'king of the heavyweights' as he edged Mark Dola, 8-6. The difference was a backing away penalty against Dola in the third period and Katinowsky's late takedown.

Earlier, the popular ESSC senior had shut out Jerry Rose of Mansfield, 4-0, with an escape and a takedown in the third period and two minutes of riding time.

The two wins raised the record for Coach Clyde Witman's ESSC team to 8-2-1. The next match will be at home Tuesday against Kutztown.

Yale defeated Mansfield, 34-7, and is now 2-4-1. The Mounties fell to 4-8-1.

The games have been rescheduled for Saturday, Feb. 5, when games will be played as they had been scheduled today.

Coghlan 'Millrose' mile champ

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ireland's Eamonn Coghlan upset the favorites in the mile run and Earl Bell got off the first 18-foot pole vault of the indoor season Friday night in the 70th Millrose Games.

Coghlan, the former NCAA champion from Villanova who finished fourth in the Olympic 1,500 meters, was content to let pre-meet favorite Filbert Bayi of Tanzania and defending Millrose champ Paul Cummings jockey with the lead until the final lap, then, with both obviously tiring, Coghlan streaked past and came home an easy winner in 4:00.2.

Coghlan followed his third indoor mile triumph by taking a victory lap and waving his green Irish jersey to the record New York track crowd of 18,235. Kenya's Wilson Waigwa came on fast to finish second while Bayi faded to third.

Bell, the Arkansas State senior, took the pole vault with a jump of 18-feet, ½-inch before missing at three tries for a world record of 18-4.

The Coghlan-Bell victories somewhat overshadowed wins by 33-year-old hurdling marvel Willie Davenport, high jumper Dwight Stones, and unbeaten sprint standout Steve Riddick.

Davenport, the four-time Olympian, copped his fifth Millrose Games 60-yard high hurdles title in a time of seven seconds flat and then promptly declared it would be his last.

"I love this," Davenport said, "but this is absolutely my last year. I've got to spend more time with my family."

Stones, who last week predicted a world record in the Millrose high jump, wasn't quite up to that form but still managed to win over Tom Woods of the Pacific Coast Club with a leap of 7-feet, 4-½-inches.

Riddick, unbeaten in five indoor sprints this season, capitalized from a fast start and blew past the 60-yard dash field five yards from the finish to win in a time of six seconds flat. Arkansas State's Ed Preston was second and Houston McTear third.

Arkansas State's Ed Preston was second and Houston McTear third.

While Coghlan was pulling his surprise in the mile, a couple of his former Villanova teammates were victorious in the middle distance events.

Don Paige, recovering from a leg injury, overpowered the 1,000-yard field over the last lap to win that event in 2:09.6. Paige's Wildcat teammate, Mark Belger, then followed suit in the half mile with a time of 1:50.0.

The women's events were highlighted by Rosalyn Bryant's world indoor best 440-yard time of 53.5, which eclipsed by three-tenths of a second the previous world best set earlier this month.

Raymonds named Marquette coach

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Hank Raymonds, Marquette University's assistant basketball coach, was named Friday to succeed the colorful Al McGuire as head coach at the basketball-minded Milwaukee school.

"I am not replacing Al McGuire — no one replaces Al McGuire —I'm succeeding him," Raymonds said at a news conference called to announce his promotion to head coach and athletic director, effective May 1.

The announcement ended six weeks of speculation following McGuire's announcement that he was resigning to go into business at the end of this season.

Raymonds, 52, has been an Marquette assistant coach for 16 years.

"Since I've been a part of the program over the years, I felt I could do a better job than someone from the outside," Raymonds said.

"I realize that every time we come down the floor next year, people will be thinking Al would have done this or he wouldn't have done that, but I cannot do what Al McGuire does, it's as simple as that.

Raymonds, often credited as the technician behind Marquette's success, said his basketball philosophy is about the same as McGuire's.

"We may open up a little bit. I'm more a believer in the controlled fast break. But I don't want to get into a helterskelter situation where you just take that ball and throw it around, because then we'll end up 13-13.

"The teams we play now know we're not going to run off defensive rebounds. Al puts five men on the boards. So I want to loosen that up a little bit. If it gets out of hand, we'll go back to the other style."

The coaching change won't affect recruiting efforts much, Raymonds said, because the players already do most of the recruiting.

Raymonds, who said he would like to hire another assistant coach when he takes over, also said he hopes assistant coach Rick Majerus stays on.

Several present and past Marquette players attended the news conference, including Bo Ellis, Ulice Payne, Butch Lee and Dave Delsman.

"Hank Raymonds deserved the job," senior forward Bo Ellis said. "If it came down to any hassle over who should have the job, all they would have had to do is ask coach McGuire — he's always said coach Raymonds is the backbone of the team."

"He (Raymonds) probably knows more basketball than Coach (McGuire)," junior guard Butch Lee said.

Raymonds came to Marquette in September, 1961, as an assistant to then Coach Eddie Hickey after a coaching career at Christian Brothers College in Memphis, Tenn., where his teams were 111-47 and participated in the NAIA finals three times.

Raymonds, a St. Louis native, lettered three times in both basketball and baseball at St. Louis University. He was a member of the billikin team which won the NIT championship in 1948.

Lehigh takes 79-62 track decision

Strein breaks record but Warriors fall

BETHLEHEM — Junior Dave Strein broke the East Stroudsburg State College pole vault record but the Warriors dropped a 79-62 track and field decision to Lehigh University Friday night.

Strein, just elected as one of the team's tri-captains, vaulted 15-0 to crack the school mark of 14-6 set by All-American Lenny Jenkins in 1973.

The record-breaking performance enabled the Catasauqua youngster to qualify for the IC4A indoor championships in early March at Princeton University.

Also qualifying for the IC4A meet was sprinter Woodrow Johnson of ESSC, who won the 60-yard dash in 6.3. The time was only a tenth of a second over Ben Kizer's school record.

The Warriors actually won ten of the 14 individual events, but Lehigh was second in all but one of them and swept all three relays.

Brothers Barry and Chris Purvis combined with Johnson to give ESSC a sweep of the sprints. Barry captured the 440-yard dash in 51.2 and Chris took the 600 in 1:15.7.

Two ESSC freshmen, Neil Laden and Jim Alexander, were winners in the middle distance events. Laden came home first in the 880-yard run in 1:58.5 and Alexander in the 1,000 in 2:19.1.

The Warriors turned to experience in the distance events with two seniors, All-American Pete Heesen and John DelSordo, gaining honors. Heesen won one of his indoor specialties, the two mile run in 9:29.6 while DelSordo took the meet's longest race, the three mile in 14:41.5.

In addition to Strein, winners for ESSC in the field events were Gary Jackson in the long jump with a fine performance of 22-6¾, which just missed qualifying for the IC4A meet, and Gary Guzzi with a leap of 6-6 in the high jump.

Lehigh's lone running winner was Stellan Thoren in the mile, breaking the 4:20 mark with a winning time of 4:16.5.

The meet was originally scheduled as a triangular, but Bloomsburg failed to appear.

Nettles-Tucker grab 'Airlines' lead with 58

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Defending champions Craig Nettles of the New York Yankees and Bob Tucker of the New York Giants shot a net 58 Friday for a one-shot lead over Hall of Famers Joe DiMaggio and Otto Graham in the first round of the 11th annual American Airlines Golf Classic.

Nettles and Tucker, who won by 11 strokes at Palm Springs last year, had their first bogey in two years in this tournament that pairs baseball and football players in best-ball competition. The two had their handicaps reduced this time, Nettles from a 13 to a 10 and Tucker from a 16 to a 14.

After they led the first round, officials cut their handicaps again, giving Nettles an eight and Tucker a 12.

They carded 30-28 over the par-72 McCormick Ranch Golf Club while DiMaggio and Graham had 29-30.

DiMaggio came out of the first round with a lump on the head. He was skulled by a sandwedge shot hit by Yogi Berra on the ninth hole while signing autographs.

The old Yankee Clipper played the second nine with an icebag handy and applied it frequently to his tender noggin.

Pocono LPGA pact signed

By JOE MIEGOC
Record Sports Editor

The official contract for the first Pocono Northeast Classic LPGA golf tournament at Pocono Manor Golf Club was signed recently after two banks guaranteed the $75,000 prize money.

The two banks, First Eastern Bank of Wilkes-Barre and Northeastern Bank of Pennsylvania in Scranton, formally agreed to guarantee the prize money and bring the first ladies' professional golf tournament to Northeastern Pennsylvania.

The tournament, which will be played on Pocono Manor's West Courst July 27-29, was actually formulated last July when LPGA officials made an on-site inspection of facilities at Pocono Manor. The guarantee of the prize money makes it official, although the tournament was already listed on the official LPGA schedule released in December.

Ken Fellin, president of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Human Resources Foundation, a non-profit organization formed to sponsor the event, feels the tournament has a chance to become a permanent LPGA event.

"We're confident the Pocono Northeast Classic will become one of the most popular and successful stops on the LPGA tour," Fellin said. "It will give the Pocono Northeast area national attention and bring money into the local economy from those attending or participating in the tournament."

The tournament is expected to draw over 100 touring pros for play on the par-72, 6,855-yard West Course.

The event will also be fighting two other major events within driving distance for local sports fans, the $200,000 IVB-Philadelphia Golf Classic at Whitemarsh Valley Country Club, which will include many of the big names on the men's tour, and the NASCAR Purolator 500 stock car race at Pocono International Raceway. Both events are set for the same weekend.

Other officers of the foundation are John Burns, Mrs. Sonia Dessen, Vivian P. Edwards Jr., Robert Heim, John Heron, Malcolm MacKinnon, Mrs. Agnes McCartney, R. O'Connell, Jack Perkins, David Tressler, Bob Uguccioni and David Vipond.

Top golf events of 1976

Speaking of golf, there were some events that took place in 1976 which didn't get as much publicity as some major events such as Jerry Pate's taking the U.S. Open in Atlanta with that great five-iron shot to the 18th or Jack Nicklaus' failure to win at least one major tournament.

For instance, one of the most unusual feats was accomplished by Jim England of Bullhead City, Arizona. It seems he bet some friends that he could break 50 on the front side of the Chapparal Country Club course using just a five-iron, eight-iron and putter. And he would hit every shot blindfolded!

Well, England did it. He shot 46 and won the bet. But the next day, with full vision and all his clubs, he still shot 46. Explain that one.

Another event which didn't get any ink was a 15-putt round by Richard Stanwood, a Caldwell, Idaho pro. Stanwood accomplished his feat on May 17 at the Riverside Country Club in Pocatello, Idaho, and its the lowest all-time putt total, according to Golf Digest in its February issue.

Continuing with golf for a moment, Buck Hill pro STEVE PEMBROOK won himself $310 with a 69-78 effort in a recent mini-tour event at Holly Hill, Fla. Pembrook shot a 69 in the first round to trail leader Wally Kuchar by just one, but his 78 on the final day dropped him four shots behind winner Bob Bailey, who won $800 . . . .

Game Commission ask bear extension

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Game Commission will ask the state Legislature to create a bear hunting license this year.

Interest in black bears and hunting of this valuable renewable resource have increased tremendously in recent years, and additional information necessary for the future management of bruins is desirable.

No one knows for sure how many bear hunters there are in Pennsylvania, or if there is likely to be widespread fluctuation in hunting pressure. If each bear hunter is required to purchase a special license in addition to the general hunting license, the Game Commission will at least know how many bear hunters there are.

A fee of $5.25 for the bear hunting license will be suggested to the Legislature.

Creation and issuance of a bear hunting license would be a necessary first step if further control of bear hunting in the state should become necessary.

Because of their solitary nature and scarcity in numbers, black bears are probably the top trophy game animal in the eastern United States. Although harvest numbers fluctuate widely from year to year in Pennsylvania, hunters take 300 to 400 in an "average" season in the commonwealth.

Single hunters find that their chances of tagging a bear are quite slim. Many bear hunters get together in groups to pursue these prized game animals.

Actually, many states in the country manage quite a few game species, especially big game, through issuance of separate licenses for individual species. Pennsylvania is one of the few states where a single general hunting license can be used to take nearly all game species.

Winter heads commission

C. Clair Winter, Everett banker, has been elected president of the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Winter, who was appointed to the agency in 1972, succeeds Elmer M. Hinehart of Stroudsburg as head of the commission. Hinehart had been president for two years, while Winter has served as secretary and then as vice president.

Trio leads tourney at 11-under 133; Arnie misses cut

Shearer, Hinkle tie Watson in 'Williams'

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Australian Bob Shearer, who won his PGA playing card last summer, and local youngster Lon Hinkle, who got into the tournament on a pass, shot 66 and 67, respectively, Friday to tie red-hot Tom Watson for the second - round lead in the $180,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

Watson, shooting his seventh straight sub-par round, a 67, and the two young challengers had 36-hole scores of 11-under-par 133.

Shearer, playing the backside first on the North Course at Torrey Pines, had a card of 35-31, finishing in a blaze with a 10-foot putt for an eagle.

Hinkle, who won a spot in the tournament on a sponsor's exemption, used a new set of irons to good advantage, hitting the ball close enough on six holes for easy birdie putts.

Bill Rogers, another youngster hoping to do well, shot a 68 to stand at nine-under 135, two shots off the lead and a shot ahead of veterans Larry Ziegler and Rod Funseth plus youngsters Bill Kratzert, Rod Curl, first—round co-leader Tom Kite and Bobby Cole.

Two-time defending champion J.C. Snead improved to a 66 and led a group at 137 while Masters champion Ray Floyd was at 138.

Watson, fourth at Tucson two weeks ago and the winner in the Crosby last week, continued to ride what he calls a "25-foot wave."

The 1975 British Open champ had two bogeys in the third round, but he offset them with seven birdies, including a 50-footer on the fourth hole of the South Course.

"I'm right in the middle of that wave," Watson said, "and I'm going to ride it as far as it will take me."

Shearer, 26, a native of Melbourne, liked playing on the American tour so much last fall after winning his card that he now makes his home at Myrtle Beach, N.C.

"After playing on the Australian and European circuits," he said, "I felt I simply had to come to America. It's the only place to really play golf. In England I always felt there were only four or five players to beat, and at least three of them would be Americans. Here anyone of 50 or 60 players could win so, when I do well here, I know I'm doing it against the very best."

Hinkle earned his playing card soon after graduating from San Diego State five years ago but never has won a title, even after competing in five tournaments in Europe last year.

"It's a struggle," he said. "No question about it, but, when you are as young as I am, you have that dream in front of you, and you just have to keep on going. I hope I can win something soon because it's difficult to play here without any money."

While things were falling into place for most of the tour's new players, Arnold Palmer suffered the embarrassment of failing to make the cut for the second week in a row with most of the day's gallery following and rooting for him.

Arnie shot a one-under 71, but that left him at one-over 145 and out for the final two rounds in the chase for a $36,000 prize.

Boros leads 'Seniors'

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — Julius Boros scored a three-under-par 69 on Walt Disney World's Magnolia course Friday to take the second-round lead in the $50,000 37th PGA Seniors golf championship.

That put Boros, a Miamian who was the 1971 tournament winner, at 140 going into the third round today, scheduled for the Palms course.

Fred Hass, Metaire, La., a 1966 tournament winner, carded a 71 Friday for a two-round 141.

Three golfers were tied at four-back from the leader. Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., who has won the tour six times, had an even par to make the threeway tie at 144. Al Balding, Ontario, had a 71, and Kyle Burton, Concord, Tenn., had a 73.

ISN'T IT WONDERFUL? — Tom Watson, who won the Bing Crosby and $40,000 last week, has a predictable reaction to this 35-foot birdie putt on the fourth green in the second round of the Andy Williams-San Diego Open Friday. Watson, Bob Shearer and Lon Hinkle share the halfway lead for the $36,000 top prize. (UPI)

All ESSC women at home today

EAST STROUDSBURG — All three East Stroudsburg State College women's winter athletic teams will be at home for contests this afternoon.

The ESSC women's swimming and diving team will compete in its first, last and only scheduled home meet of the season today at 2 p.m. in the Koehler Fieldhouse pool. The opposition will be furnished by Springfield and Bucknell.

Another 2 p.m. event will send the ESSC women's gymnastics team against New England champion Springfield in the Zimbar Gymnasium.

National champion Clarion was scheduled to compete in the gymnastics meet, but was forced to withdraw when the Western Pennsylvania school was closed because of the energy crisis.

The ESSC women's basketball team will face another nationally-ranked team when it meets Southern Connecticut at 3 p.m. in the Koehler Fieldhouse. There will be a junior varsity game at 1:15.

The closest of the three events should be the swimming meet where the Warriors should beat a rebuilding Bucknell team and give strong competition to Springfield.

Coach Joanne Smith's team has been bolstered by the return of All-American Karen Linck, a two-time All-American and school record-holder in six events.

Linck, fourth in the national 50-yard butterfly last year, spent the first semester at the University of Wyoming before returning to ESSC this week.

The ESSC junior is joined by the other three members of the school's All-American relay team, Cathy Crigler, Cindy Brown and Kathy Thoresen. The quartet reached the finals of the 200-yard freestyle relay in the nationals last season.

The Warriors also should score well in the diving competition with school record-holders Sue Culberton and Laurie Bean.

Springfield captured the New England swimming championship for the eighth time in nine years in 1976. The Chiefs have two fine freestyle sprinters in Helen Lawler and Mary Jane D'Zurilla and an outstanding freshman breaststroker in Cheryl Poirier.

Bucknell's best are Cathy Karpuk, who holds six school diving records, and distance freestyler Nancy Norton.

In gymnastics, Springfield has scored a high of 131.80 points and will favored to beat an ESSC team, which has only managed 112.85 points.

Patti Kural is the top all-around performer for the Springfield, Mass. team and will be aided by captain Michelle Lemieux. ESSC will depend on co-captains Suzette Gosling and Kathy Driscoll.

The Warrior women's basketball team has lost four games, two to Top Ten teams Immaculata and Montclair State, and may be out of its class again today against Southern Connecticut.

The Owls, 4-2, have an extremely tall team with two 6-1 starters in center Marnie Dacko, averaging 19.0 points and 12.4 rebounds per game, and forward Jody Rajcula, 11 points and nine rebounds.

Southern Connecticut is the only school to have played in every AIAW national tournament. Two former team members, Mary Anne O'Connor and Sue Rojcewicz, were key performers on the 1976 United States Women's Olympic basketball team which earned silver medals.

The New Haven, Conn. team has a new coach this season in Don Perrelli, the school's all-time leading men's basketball scorer with 1,866 points and the NCAA Division II scoring champion in 1969 with a 31.5 per-game average. He succeeds Louise O'Neal, now at Yale.

ESSC stayed with Montclair State for the first 14 minutes Tuesday night before falling, 73-52. The Warriors only have one player averaging in double figures, center Doris Draving with a 21.8 per-game average.

Huskies' Radocha faces ESSC tonight

EAST STROUDSBURG — Area basketball fans have been treated to some of the hottest shooting performances ever seen at East Stroudsburg State College this season. Unfortunately, nearly all have been by visiting teams and players.

Another hot-shot scorer will be in action at the LeRoy J. Koehler Fieldhouse tonight as Jerry Radocha leads his Bloomsburg State team against the Warriors in an 8 p.m. Pennsylvania Conference game.

Radocha is the leading basketball scorer in Bloomsburg history with 1558 points and eight regular-season games still remaining. He has hit 378 points this season for a 25.2 per-game average.

The ESSC team and Coach Ken Sisson know Radocha well. He poured in 40 points against them earlier this season in a 123-93 Bloomsburg romp.

In that game, Radocha, a cousin of ESSC's football standout Pete, drilled in 15 of 24 shots from the floor and hit on ten of 12 field goals. He also grabbed 14 rebounds.

The 6-5 forward from New Cumberland was the leading vote-getter on last year's Pennsylvania Conference All-Star team. He even outpolled Phil Walker of Millersville, who has close to 2,000 career points and hit 38 points against ESSC earlier this season.

Bloomsburg boasts an 11-4 record, but the Huskies are only 2-4 in road games, winning all nine of their contests at home.

Coach Charlie Chronister, an ESSC alumnus, has two other double-figure scorers in forward Al Williams, 15.1 points per game, and forward Rick Evans, 12.5 points per game.

ESSC was up and down during the Pocono Classic which ended Thursday. The Warriors played their best ball of the season in smashing pre-tournament favorite Kings Point, 79-71, in the first round.

In the championship game, ESSC reverted to its first-semester form, which has left the team with a 3-10 record, bowing to hot-shooting King's College, 87-70. King's shot better than 60 per cent from the floor.

With only two games of varsity experience, ESSC forward Dave Zinn already has earned his first award, receiving a Pocono Classic All-Tournament trophy.

Zinn scored 21 points against Kings Point and 14 against King's for a 17.5 per-game average. Guard Dave Moyer is averaging 14.9 points per game.

There will be a 6:15 p.m. preliminary junior varsity game.

Warriors' swim meet televised

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg State College's swimming meet against King's College today at 3:30 p.m. will be shown on television.

WNEP-TV, channel 16, will telecast the meet direct from the King's College pool. Subscribers of the Blue Ridge Cable Company can receive the station on channel 7.

The Warriors, 2-4 and led by All-American Bob Seagraves, will be heavily favored to win the meet.

Bindings check set today at Big Boulder

LAKE HARMONY — Skiers can have bindings checked free of charge at Big Boulder Ski Area today and again on Sunday, Feb. 27.

A Salomon factory-trained representative will be available to adjust the settings and check the release system on Salomon bindings, as well as offer suggestions for proper maintenance.

Clarence Dankel, manager of Big Boulder, looks favorably upon the upcoming inspection session.

"In a sport where properly tuned equipment is so vitally important, it's reassuring to see an equipment manufacturer making the extra effort to be sure each skier is getting maximum safety and performance from his equipment," Dankel said. "It's good for the manufacturer and skier both."

The Salomon representative will be at Big Boulder from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 3 p.m. All inspections will take place in the bright orange tent, located near Big Boulder's main lodge.

Mets face trouble in signing Kingman

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets, who failed to land a player in the recent free agent bidding war, said Friday they were having difficulty in signing one of their own stars, power-hitting Dave Kingman.

General Manager Joe McDonald confirmed the Mets were "miles apart" in their negotiations with the 6-foot-6 Kingman, who hit 37 homers last season and drove in 86 runs.

Reportedly, Kingman is asking for a multi-year, million dollar pact, a figure that would price him over right-hander Tom Seaver.

"We've had three meetings and we're still very far apart," said McDonald. "I don't care to go into details. Dave doesn't want us to mention money when we talk to the press. He says negotiating through the newspapers is bad business.

"We're willing to go along with the multi-year contract. Money is the big problem."

New York has signed 30 of the 38 members on its roster, a list that includes pitcher Mickey Lolich, who is on the second half of a two-year contract but has expressed dissatisfaction with his lot as a Met.

Phils sign McCarver

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Philadelphia catcher Tim McCarver signed a one-year contract with the Phillies Friday, ending speculation that he would become a broadcaster for the expansion Toronto Bluejays.

Philadelphia general manager Paul Owens said McCarver, 35, will stay with the Phillies upon retirement.

"Timmy is a high class person, the kind I want to stay with the Phils," Owens said.

Stocks close mixed; averages slightly up

NEW YORK (UPI) — A late blue-chip and glamor rally left prices mixed Friday in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues as investors pondered favorable economic news and the nation's weather-energy crisis.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fluctated throughout the day, finished with a gain of 2.99 points to 957.53. The blue-chip average, which lost 3.99 Thursday, gave up 4.90 points for the week.

The NYSE common stock index added 0.05 to 55.49 and the average price of a common share increased by three cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, containing some overthe-counter stocks, gained 0.14 to 101.93.

Declines topped advances, 778 to 667, among the 1,881 issues crossing the tape.

Big Board volume totaled 22,700,000 shares, compared with 24,360,000 traded Thursday.

Turnover of NYSE issues listed on all exchanges totaled 26,028,880 shares, compared with 28,512,960 Thursday.

Wall Street was disturbed by the economic disruption caused by the unusually cold weather engulfing much of the nation. Scores of plants closed because of fuel shortages and several states declared emergencies. Crop damage was likely to accelerate inflation.

The Senate began debate Friday on President Carter's emergency natural gas bill. The Federal Energy Administration proposed spreading the cost of higher imported home heating oil among all consumers. A consumer group urged Carter to declare a national emergency. Carter said his staff was checking out disaster aid provisions.

The energy-weather crisis developments tended to overshadow news the Commerce Department's December index of leading economic indicators rose 1.6 per cent, the largest increase in 17 months. Prices rallied briefly following this news.

Also, the Commerce Department reported the U.S. trade deficit narrowed to $551.4 million in December, giv illiiiiing the nation an annual deficit of $5.9 billion, compared to a record surplus of $11 billion in 1975.

Bank stocks fell sharply following reports Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith downgraded and recommended selling many. Further, New York City's long-running financial crisis remains serious.

Chemical New York fell 2¾ to 42¼, Bankers Trust 1⅝ to 37¾, Citicorp 1⅝ to 30½, Manufacturers Hanover 1 to 38¼ and Chase Manhattan ½ to 31⅜.

Southern Co. was the most active NYSE-listed issue, off ⅛ to 16¾ in trading that included a block of 280,000 shares at 16¾. The utility holding company reported lower earnings Thursday.

Heublein, which recently reported lower earnings and sales, was the second most active issue, off 1 to 29⅛. A block of 100,000 shares crossed at 30.

Johns-Manville, which plunged Wednesday because of concern over its Quebec asbestos operations, was third, up ⅝ to 29⅛. JM played down Quebec takeover threats.

Revere Copper & Brass gained 1⅛ to 18⅝ before trading was halted. National Steel and later Martin Marietta said they were engaged in talks to acquire the firm. Revere said it would talk to all. The Justice Department threatened an investigation if National was involved. National Steel lost ⅜ to 43⅜. Martin Marietta gained ⅛ to 27⅞. ASARCO, which owns 33 per cent of Revere, added ¼ to 19⅛.

Richmond Corp. fell 1¼ to 21⅛. Late Thursday, the firm announced it and Continental Corp. had postponed meetings to vote on a merger proposal. Richmond also reported flat fourth quarter earnings and raised its dividend payment. Continental lost ⅛ to 35⅞.

Empire Gas, a propane gas firm recommended by analysts, added ⅞ to 22⅞ after raising its dividend. The firm said Thursday it had bought 100,000 of its own shares. Transco, a pipeline firm, gained ½ to 19⅞. Superior Oil, which has substantial natural gas reserves, rose 5 to 235. Inexco Oil, which reported improved gas reserves in 1976, gained 1 to 15⅝.

UAL Inc., parent of United Airlines, dropped 1⅜ to 22¼ following a 1⅛-point loss Thursday. The firm reported a sharp fourth quarter loss. Other airlines, which could be hurt by the energy crisis, also were lower.

NCR Corp., which Thursday reported higher earnings, gained 1¾ to 37¼.

Prices were mixed in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The Amex market value index added 0.07 to 111.74 and the average price of a common share increased by one cent. Declines topped advances, 336 to 283, among the 903 issues crossing the composite tape. Volume totaled 2,827,300 shares, compared with 3,315,900 Thursday.

Super mountains surprise feature on Mars

By JONATHON SPIVAK
Wall Street Journal — ONS

PASADENA, Calif. — When the first Viking spacecraft landed on Mars some five months ago, scientists were quite certain that the most dramatic discovery they could make would be that of life on the planet. No microbes have, as yet, been plucked from the Martian surface. And yet the portrait of the plant that is emerging is, perhaps, equally as dramatic as the discovery of life.

After the initial enthusiasm, speculation and somewhat hasty conclusions about Mars, scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory are now discussing the results of long weeks of intensive and sober study of the mass of data sent back by the two Viking landers. They are uncovering a tantalizing new picture of what was once considered to be a dull, dusty orb.

Photographs show Martian mountains, volcanoes and other spectacular surface features, some 10 times as large as any on earth, a scale that has stunned the experts. They also are surprised by the variety of the terrain, ranging from hard rock to soft soil, even within a few feet of the landing craft.

"A spectacular diversity in geological terms," exclaims Thomas Mutch of Brown University, who heads the Viking photo team. "Mars is much more complex than we had naively envisioned," says Thomas Young, the Viking mission director.

Yet even as many of the questions about the surface features of Mars are being answered, scientists are being confronted with even more provocative "mysteries," in particular the abundance of oxygen compounds apparently in the soil samples.

On earth, at least, scientists believe that life emerged from a "primeval soup" of hydrogen and other simple elements. Should life be found to exist on Mars, the discovery of oxygen-rich compounds could mean that different chemical reactions were at work. "It questioned the whole theory of the origin of life," says Harold Klein, who heads the Viking biology team.

As is by now well known, Mars is thought to be gripped in a rigid underground layer of permanently frozen water, which has been melted in some areas into muddy flows. Though the planet now appears arid, rivers once coursed across its surface and traces of ancient floods remain. These floods occurred at least a billion years ago, when a dense atmosphere enveloped the planet.

This is the Viking mission's single biggest discovery to date. Where the water came from can only be guessed: it may have condensed from the atmosphere or it may have resulted from ice melted by lava from volcanic eruptions.

But the most immediate fascination for scientists comes from the enormous scale differences of surface features between the Earth and Mars. Polygonal cracks, extending over hundreds of square miles, on a planet half the size of the Earth, are baffling.

The massive Martian mountain, the Mons Olympica, is almost as wide as the Hawaiian Archipelago and seems to have been formed by the welling up of molten lava from the planet's interior. Yet, before the Viking mission, the planet's interior was not thought to have been hot enough to produce volcanic eruptions of such intensity.

Scientists say they frankly can't explain why these and other equally spectacular formations, such as canyons, channels, flood plains and geologic faults (all photographed by orbiting Viking spacecraft are so massive. "There is no satisfactory explanation of the scale differences," says Robert Hargraves of Princeton University.

One consequence of the many questions left unanswered by the Viking mission is the pressure for further Martian exploration. The Jimmy Carter administration will be confronted with the major decision about a Viking successor.

It's estimated that an even more ambitious flight in 1981 could cost between $500 million and $1 billion. Some space officials would like to see the development of solar-powered roving vehicles that would travel miles from the landing site.

The search for life will almost certainly take a back seat in the next expedition. Instead, a lander would be equipped with sophisticated geological and chemical instruments. "My own personal interest is that it be strongly organized around geological exploration," says Bruce Murray, the head of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Certainly, the Viking mission's preoccupation with the search for life has tended to obscure other valuable scientific findings. For example, scientists now believe that a study of the weather patterns of Mars could lead to better long-range forecasting on Earth. This is because the weather on Mars is not subject to the distrubing influence of oceans, as is the case of earth. Because of this simpler pattern, "significant gains could be made in understanding the Earth's weather," says Carl Sagan, Cornell University astronomer.

But until the next mission can be planned, scientists will have more than enough Viking data to keep them busy. "It would take us four years to get the data out if we stopped now," says Hugh Kieffer, a University of California at Los Angeles scientist who is in charge of Viking's temperature mapping.

New test discovers alcoholics

By BARBARA J. KATZ
National Observer — ONS

Alcoholism is usually not diagnozed until its symptoms have become obvious because the alcoholic's life is disrupted. Now a new test that detects alcoholism in its early stages may enable alcoholics to deal with their problem before it reaches that point of disruption.

A group of researchers at the Bronx Veterans Administration Hospital and the Mt. Sinai School of Medicine in New York have found that they can tell whether persons are alcoholic by determining the ratio of two amino acids in their blood.

Thus an alcoholic is said to have an elevated "a-1 ratio". The more elevated the ratio, the more severe the problem.

The researchers — Doctors Charles S. Lieber, Barry Stimmel, and Spencer Shaw — say that the test measures chronic drinking rather than a onetime binge. And it can detect chronic drinking even if the person has abstained for a week or more.

This test, say its discoverers, could provide accurate information before the problem has reached the stage of causing liver disease or major social complications. And it could also be used to compare the effectiveness of treatment programs — and to check whether alcoholics under treatment are actually staying off alcohol.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Friends, associates may want to change some plans. Consider carefully before objecting. You may see new values.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — If dubious about certain matters, give them further study and, if necessary, seek expert advice. In leisure time, devote yourself to a hobby for a change of pace.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Some "fireworks" indicated in personal matters. Don't become overly emotional. Learn the "whys and wherefores," then handle astutely.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Do not fret over delays or disappointments. Meet obstacles with composure: YOU can overcome them all.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Do not let a desire for comfort or pleasure cause you to neglect duties important to your future. Be tactful in making requests, not demanding.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — Be careful in your approaches. Also, be enthusiastic about all endeavors or your efforts may not impress, may not produce the results you desire.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — One of your ideas which others might consider "visionary" seems to have solid foundation, so give it more thought and don't let others discourage you.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22) — A day calling for flexibility. Don't adhere rigidly to a course when new developments definitely call for a change of policy.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — Your impulse to "get going" should be checked until associates are ready to join you. Forcing matters will only lead to dissension.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — With further thought, you now see possibilities in hitherto barren areas of achievement so, if you're in a mood to take a chance, go ahead. Success likely.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Good stellar influences. Especially favored: real estate interests, home improvements, family concerns and social activities.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — You may not be in the best position to take action on a cherished project just now, but that needn't deter you from keeping your plans in mind.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine mind, lofty ambitions and a truly scintillating sense of humor. You have the "gift of gab" and can sell yourself and your wares to anyone — even total strangers. You loathe anything that seems "dull" — whether people or tasks — but you MUST learn to adapt yourself. There are times when one has to deal with those of slower comprehension, must carry on with tedious chores. Fighting them only makes them more difficult. Your talents are many, but you could especially shine as artist, journalist, musician, designer or decorator. Birthdate of: Wm. McKinley, 25th Pres., U.S.A.; Thomas Paine, early Amer. writer; Paddy Chayefsky, screen writer; Emanuel Swedenborg, Brit. mystic, philosopher.

U.S. railroaded them, 4 Americans say

By K. MACK SISK

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — On the day he was to have been married, Mike Bradshaw was in jail.

Ada Eveleigh Simpson was also under arrest when she was named San Antonio's "Legal Secretary of the Year."

For Bradshaw, Mrs. Simpson and three other Americans, the purchase of ancient Mexican artifacts resulted in their being arrested, jailed, convicted and spending two life-shattering years of disgrace and legal battling until the 5th District Court of Appeals overturned their convictions last week.

Four of the persons involved, who had never before faced a more serious accusation than a traffic infraction, say they were arrested, charged, tried and convicted, embarrassed and socially and financially ostracized because the FBI wanted a test case to halt the importation of Mexican art treasures into the United States.

"...It completely destroyed my life and everything I'd built up —my reputation, my family's reputation. I had to pull out of town," Bradshaw said.

The four charge in interviews that they were railroaded by U.S. government investigators and prosecutors, pressured by the Mexican government for convictions.

The federal Court of Appeals agreed and reversed the convictions reached by a San Antonio jury on June 22, 1975. Now they say they may take legal action to recover damages for the loss of income, mental anguish and humiliation they went through because of the prosecutions.

UPI interviewed Bradshaw, formerly of Toledo, Ohio; Patty McClain of Houston; and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Simpson of San Antonio, after the appeals court threw out the convic*tions. A fifth person convicted* in the same case, Gerald Rodriguez, of Calexico, Calif., could not be reached for comment.

All were arrested on March 6, 1974, and charged with interstate transportation of stolen merchandise, namely more than 300 art objections of the Mayan and Aztec civilizations of Mexico and Guatemala, some believed to be 2,000 years old.

Bradshaw is the son of the late editor of the Toledo Blade newspaper, Mrs. McClain is the wife of a Houston oil company owner; Simpson was at the time an investment counselor and his wife, Ada Eveleigh, ironically, was named San Antonio's "Legal Secretary of the Year" after her arrest 1974. Rodriguez operated a battery business in California.

They said Rodriguez imported the art objects between 1964 and 1969 for his private collection, checked them all through Mexican and U.S. customs, and decided to sell them to raise money for treatment of his son who was ill with cancer.

Simpson said he and Bradshaw, who met in other business ventures, decided to take the artifacts to sell on consignment after Simpson received an opinion from an attorney that it was legal to deal in the objects.

Bradshaw said he even took one of the objects to the FBI office in Cleveland, Ohio, where an agent told him they were not stolen, and that he and Simpson both went to the FBI office in San Antonio and discussed the transaction.

Mrs. McClain said her attorney sent to Washington for a 1972 treaty between the United States and Mexico on importation of art objects, and she, too, concluded the objects were obtained legally.

"If I hadn't gone to the FBI to start with," Simpson said. "They never would have known about it."

However, Simpson and Bradhsaw said the FBI instead decided to put the five persons under surveillance, followed them to California and eventually arrested them. The charges were based on the ground that all artifacts in Mexico belong to the Mexican government, henceforth they were stolen property.

However, in last week's decision, 5th Circuit Justice John Minor Wisdom said that interpretation of Mexican law was new and not valid.

"Museum directors, art dealers and innumerable private collectors throughout this country must have been in a state of shock when they heard the news — if they did — of the convictions of the five de*fendants in this case," Wisdom* wrote.

The Simpsons and Mrs. McClain credited the overturning to the intervention of the Association of Dealers in Ancient, Oriental and Primitive Art, which filed a friend of the court brief in their behalf.

The brief said "the government made available to the defendants its own partial 'translation' of the two most recent Mexican statutes, which were highly misleading distortions of the Spanish text and even added the critical language 'archeological goods are the property of the nation' — that simply does not exist in the statute."

Bradshaw said as a result of his conviction and news reports of the case, his legal battle cost him more than $100,000 in cash and trust funds from his late parents, a $250,000 condominium complex he was buying, and a restaurant. His utilities were cut off and he eventually left Toledo in disgrace to live in Columbus, Miss., he said.

On the day Bradshaw was to have been married, he was in jail and he blames the government charges for his eventual divorce.

"I just had to pack up and leave Toldeo. My father was the editor of the Toledo Blade and it just shattered me to have news like that come out in his own paper. I just recent*ly finished off after three* years of paying for this thing. It just hounded me monetarily right down the road, to say nothing of the mental aggravation. They did everything to me but shoot me," Bradshaw said.

Mrs. McClain said the conviction also resulted in her separation for her husband for two years and humiliated her in Houston.

"After I was arrested I was in a state of shock," said Mrs. McClain, who started collecting art objects in Costa Rica several years ago and has provided artifacts to museums in the United States and Canada.

"I just don't want another woman to have to enter a jail cell as I did and have about 30 women screaming, 'fresh meat, fresh meat.' You have no idea what that does to you inside. You don't know what to expect. I spent two weeks in jail with a $100,000 bond. There are people who have committed murder who don't have $100,000 bonds. I was terrified."

Simpson said he had to change jobs twice since the conviction, his father was forced to go into retirement savings to post $10,000 cash bond, and his and his wife's social contacts in San Antonio deteriorated.

"We did everything a layman could do to try to stay within the law."
